HELD IN KIDNAPING

John Travis (left), 24, arrested in connection with the kidnaping of Dr. James I. Seder, pleaded guilty to a charge of extortion and was held in Huntington, W. Va., under $50,000 bond for the federal grand jury. Also held on extortion charges in the same case was Arnett A. Booth (right). Dr. Seder, dry leader and former missionary, died in a Huntington hospital.

NATION BEGINS UNEMPLOYMENT CHECK TUESDAY

Census To Register Persons Not Working Or Working Part Time

Taking of the national unemployment census, ordered by President Roosevelt, will begin throughout the country Tuesday. Principal workers on the census project will be employes and officials of the postoffice department and members of citizens' committees designated by mayors of cities throughout the nation.

The census will attempt to register all unemployed and partly employed persons in the United States. Unemployment report cards will be distributed at all dwellings by postoffice workers.

Workers are requested on the registration forms to fill out the forms and place them in the mails before midnight Saturday. No postage is required. Information placed on the cards will be treated as confidential, and names of signers of the cards will not be published or made public in any way, census officials have said.

If anyone does not receive a card by November 17, he can secure cards from the postoffice, police jury, city halls, labor council, Louisiana state employment service, 409 DeSiard street, social welfare exchange, located in old Central Savings bank bulding on South Grand street.

The census will be directed by John

Futile Extortion Plot Takes Life Of Former Dry Leader

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Dr. James I. Seder, 79-year-old kidnap victim, held 10 days in an abandoned coal mine in what federal agents declared was a futile $50,000 extortion plot, died early today of pneumonia.

Dr. A. K. Kessler who had attended the former state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said "death was undoubtedly caused by exposure" during the 10 days his aged patient had been held captive.

Prosecutor E. E. Winters, Jr., announced immediately he would confer later today with Judge H. Clay Warth on the impaneling of a special grand jury and that he would ask murder indictments against three suspects arrested by agents of the federal bureau of investigation.

Winters said he would ask the death penalty.

Lieutenant of Detectives Leslie J. Swann disclosed that 46-year-old Arnett A. Booth, one of the suspects, had been under suspicion from the day Dr. Seder disappeared.

This, Swann explained, was because it was learned that Dr. Seder and Booth had had difficulties about a check Dr. Seder endorsed for Booth. The detective said the check had been returned.

Booth had rented an apartment from the aged kidnap victim, who had told officers before his death that Booth enticed him into an automobile November 1 on the pretense of providing identification for a check. Two other men were in the automobile.

Although Booth was questioned twice, he was released both times, but kept under constant surveillance.

BURGLAR ROBS MONROE STORE

Takes Assortment Of Merchandise From Hunt And Whitaker Firm

A burglary at the Hunt and Whitaker store, 436 DeSiard street, Monday, was reported by the Monroe police department. Merchandise reported stolen included four watches, eight diamond rings, eight ring mountings, 10 watch chains, one .32 caliber automatic pistol and a suit of clothes. The owners of the store Monday had not reported the value of the merchandise and were checking the store to determine if anything else had been taken.

City Detective L. G. Parker and B. J. Bedsole, who conducted the police investigation, reported the store was broken into Sunday night. The burglar is thought to have undressed

Smith Says Blacks 'Systematically Excluded' In Drawing Venire

Claiming that the Ouachita parish jury commission has "systematically excluded" negroes from serving on juries in this parish and that as a result of this action the venire of 300 names, all of them white persons, from which were selected the present Ouachita parish grand jury and from which will be selected the petit jurors, is an illegally drawn venire, George Wesley Smith, counsel representing Rev. George H. Dierlamm, Congregational minister of West Monroe charged with carnal knowledge, who was scheduled to go to trial Monday morning in the district criminal court here, Monday morning filed a motion praying that the venire be quashed.

The motion was filed with Deputy Clerk W. F. Thurmon but was not acted upon Monday because the district criminal court failed to convene due to the absence of Judge R. R. Reeves who was assigned to this court in the absence of Judge J. T. Shell, who is recovering from a recent illness at Hot Springs, Ark., and who was reported presiding over the criminal court session in his own district in Catahoula parish.

The motion asking that the names of the grand jury and petit jurors drawn for the present term by the Ouachita parish jury commission be quashed

7 LOSE LIVES AFTER GREEK VESSEL SINKS DURING STORM

One Member Of Crew Goes Mad And Bites Nose Of Captain

SIGHTED BY PLANES

Shark Pulls One Victim From Life Belt To His Death

NORFOLK, Va., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Fifteen disheveled survivors of the Greek freighter Tzenny Chandris, which sank Saturday, arrived here today aboard the coast guard cutter Mendota and, through interpreters, told their graphic story of men against the sea.

The captain of the crew of 28, seven of whom lost their lives, bore a bright red gash across the bridge of his nose to witness his story of how one seaman on the raft with him went mad in the harrowing hours before the rescue, and bit his captain in the face before he died.

An English seaman said he felt the heavily laden freighter give two lurches, and then he "walked off the deck into the water." He couldn't swim, but grabbed a piece of timber and kept afloat, fighting off sharks that nipped his ankles.

"I was the last to leave the ship and the last to be picked up," said Joseph Corrie, 49, of White Hiben, England.

The captain, George Coufopandelis, and the other fourteen survivors were taken to the Marine hospital for treat-

Japan Seeks To Get Cash From United States

TOKYO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The newspaper Nichi Nichi reported today in a dispatch from Hsinking that attempts were being made to enlist one billion yen ($290,000,000) of American capital for development of industries in Manchoukuo.

The dispatch quoted Yoshisuke Auykawa, president of the newly-formed Japan industry company, as saying that proposed development of Manchoukuo heavy industries entails an expenditure of three billion yen.

Of this amount, Auykawa said, it was planned to raise equal parts in Japan, Manchoukuo and the United States. Auykawa's concern has been charged with coordination of the entire Manchoukuo heavy industries program.

He added that American firms to be approached for backing included the Ford Motor, General Motors and Standard Oil companies.

"To cooperate with foreign capital we intend to transfer shares for machinery, patents and so forth," Auykawa said. "We consider it necessary to have foreigners among the directors."

LAWYER'S PAY BASIS HIT IN STANDARD SUIT

Oil Company Counsel Contends Law Unconstitutional

BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Counsel for the Standard Oil company of Louisiana argued today that the basis of remuneration by the state in employing Hugh M. Wilkinson, New Orleans attorney, as special counsel was "unconstitutional and unconscionable."

T. M. Milling, general counsel for the oil company, contended that act nine of the third extra legislative session of 1934 is invalid.

Standard challenged Wilkinson's eligibility to prosecute a case here in district court in which he represents the state's claims for $750,000 in gasoline taxes. The state has asserted in pleadings that Standard collected the amount in tax money but failed to remit it to the tax collector.

Milling argued that a contract between Governor Richard Leche and Attorney General Gaston Porterie and Wilkinson guaranteed the latter one-third of any taxes and penalties he might succeed in collecting in the litigation.

This would divert tax money from the dedication designated in the state constitution, Milling asserted, since the gasoline tax law provides that gasoline taxes go to the state highway fund.

"Here is a claim that will amount to probably $4,000,000 and here the governor and the attorney general are planning to take one-third of this, or more than $1,000,000, and hand it over to Mr. Wilkinson and his associates," Milling told District Judge Charles Holcombe.

The attorney explained that, if the state's contentions against Standard are upheld, taxes and penalties col-

IL DUCE ALONE IN SUPPORT OF JAPAN'S STAND

Eighteen Other Nations Expected To Criticize Aggression

BRUSSELS, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Italy stood alone as Japan's champion today as delegates of 19 countries prepared to close the first stage of the conference on the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

Count Luigi Aldrovandi-Marescotti, Italian delegate, was expected to bring word from Premier Benito Mussolini that Fascist Italy could not join in the declaration, prepared by United States, British and French delegates, that Japan's action in China was illegal.

The Italian delegate was expected to say that Italy could not join in the declaration because it implied criticism of her anti-Communism ally, Japan, and because it blamed Japan for continuance of the conflict with China.

Conference circles thought Italy might take one of three courses: Announce that Italy would abstain from voting, thus refusing all responsibility

HEAD MENTOR AT TECH GETS TRANSFUSIONS AFTER CRASH

Both Legs Broken, Ribs Fractured And Lung Possibly Punctured

CHANCE TO RECOVER

One Of Chief Fears Now That Pneumonia May Develop

Special to News-Star

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 15.—Coach Eddie McLane, athletic director at Louisiana Tech, who was critically injured in an automobile accident near Bunkie Saturday night, remained in a grave condition at Baptist hospital here today.

Further examination this morning revealed that two of Coach McLane's ribs were fractured and it was feared that a lung had been punctured. Attending physicians said the Tech coach had a chance to recover unless he develops pneumonia as a result of the punctured lung.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 15.—(AP)—L. P. (Eddie) McLane, 38, head football coach at Louisiana Tech, of Ruston, was reported in undetermined condition today from an automobile accident of Saturday night in which he was injured seriously.

Baptist hospital attendants said he was "holding his own" and that his condition might be considered a little improved. His wife was at his bedside and a stream of Tech students visited him and wished him an early recovery.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Eddie McLane, head athletic coach at Louisiana Polytechnic institute, was in critical condition at a hospital here today as the result of an automobile accident Saturday night. Three blood transfusions have been given him.

The automobile of McLane and his assistants, Herb Duggan and Mike Wells, coming from the Louisiana State-Auburn game at Baton Rouge, collided with another car near Bunkie, about 30 miles from here.

Duggan and Wells, after treatment at the Bunkie clinic were taken yesterday to Ruston, La., where Louisiana Tech is located.

They said McLane was pinned beneath their automobile after the wreck. Physicians said his jaw and both legs had been crushed and he had severe cuts about the face and head.

Officers at Bunkie declared the driver of the other car was O. E. McCoy of Bunkie. He was unhurt.

McLane became head coach at Tech in 1934. Previously he had coached at Howard college, Birmingham, Ala. The Tech football team has won five games, lost two and tied one this season.

Louisiana Tech is scheduled to play Louisiana college at Pineville Saturday.

House Group Agrees To Cut Profits Tax Off Small Man

Relief Provisions For Larger Corporations Still Considered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A house tax sub-committee tentatively agreed today to exempt all corporations having $5,000 net income or less from the undistributed profits tax.

Chairman Vinson, Democrat, Kentucky, in announcing this step to meet growing demands for tax relief for business, said it would apply to two-thirds of the corporations which have a net income.

A loss of some $7,000,000 in annual revenue will result, Vinson said.

"The committee," he added, "is still considering added relief provisions for corporations having net income of more than $5,000 and extending up to a bracket not yet tentatively agreed on. But the limit will be at least [illegible] or more."

These additional means of easing the tax burden on business, he said, were decided upon tentatively.

JAPANESE ARMY PERILS CHIEF CHINA DEFENSE

Soochow Desolated By More Than 700 Nipponese Bombs

SHANGHAI, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Japanese forces endangered China's whole "Hindenburg line" defenses today in a drive on Soochow.

The offensive westward from Shanghai, Japanese officers said, was the opening of a campaign against Nanking, China's capital, 125 to 150 miles west of the "Hindenburg line."

Advices from Nanking said Soochow was desolated by more than 700 Japanese bombs dropped on it within 30 hours.

The central government was known to be resolved to defend Nanking. Knowledge of that determination and of Soochow's fate hastened a heavy civilian exodus from Nanking by river, canal and road. Government officials remained, however.

Another Chinese capital, meanwhile, appeared in imminent danger in north China. Swift Japanese columns were reported within 15 miles of Tsinan, capital of wealthy Shantung province. Tsinan is the only provincial capital of north China still uncaptured by the Japanese.

Japan's converging forces on the Shanghai-Soochow front now held an almost straight line from Chapu on Hangchow bay, north to Paimaokow on the south bank of the Yangtze river.

A hospital bulletin said Ryan continued to improve, but visitors, including his bride, the former Miss Martha Barkley of Morganton, were not permitted to see him. He was admitted to the hospital ten days ago.

Mrs. Ryan was at the home of her parents in Morganton.

LIQUOR COUNT ARRESTS MADE

Two Men Accused Of Violating City's Week-End 'Bone-Dry' Law

Two arrests for violating the week-end bone-dry city ordinance which prohibits the sale of spiritous, vinous or malt liquors between the hours of midnight Saturday and 6 a. m. Monday had been made and were reported by the Monroe police department.

Those charged with violating the ordinance were Fred Webster, proprietor of the Wildwood Night club located in the 2900 block of DeSiard street and Richard Marlow, an assistant at the night club. The men were taken in custody Sunday morning about 1 o'clock by Police Captain B. L. Brantley and Officers C. W. Dent, A. L. Cornett, V. W. Cummings. The arrested men are alleged to have sold beer.

Webster and Marlow were released on bond and were scheduled to be tried in city court Monday afternoon.

PROPOSAL TO END INJUSTICE MADE IN TALK TO CONGRESS

President Calls For Early Action On Four-Point Program

MENTIONS 'BALANCE'

Thinks Expenses Should Be Definitely Within Income

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt recommended removal of tax injustices "to encourage productive enterprise" today in submitting a four-point legislative program to congress.

In a message opening the special session which was read to the senate and house by clerks, the president asked "early action" on legislation on farm crop control, labor wages and hours, reorganization of the executive branch and planning of natural resources.

But of at least equal importance to members were these remarks on taxes:

"Unjust provisions should be removed provided such removal does not create new injustices. * * * Nor can we at this time accept a revision of our tax laws which involves a reduction in the aggregate revenues or an increase in the aggregate tax burdens of those least able to bear them.

"We should give special consideration to lightening inequitable burdens on the enterprise of the small business men of the nation. * * * In this way we may also find assistance in our search for a more effective method of checking the growing concentration of economic control and the resultant monopolistic practices which persist today in spite of anti-trust statutes. A further search for additional methods to meet this threat to free competitive enterprise is called for at this time."

Mr. Roosevelt did not ask action on tax revision at the special session, a course advocated by many members of his party. He noted that the question was receiving study by the treasury and congressional committees.

Again he reiterated that he expected the next budget to be brought within a definite balance and directed special attention to business conditions.

"Since your adjournment in August there has been a marked recession in industrial production and industrial purchases following a fairly steady

CHICAGO ROWS OVER SCHOOLS

Superintendent Proposes Change To Vocational Courses

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Parents and educators were divided today over an extensive vocational training program for a greater percentage of the city's 175,000 high school children.

The issue flared into the open shortly after Superintendent William H. Johnson announced that a five-year plan calling for 50 per cent vocational courses in the schools' curricula, would be launched immediately.

Opponents termed the program "undemocratic" and [illegible] of a [illegible] machine."

But Johnson cited lack of correlation between the city's employment needs and the education offered by the schools.

A survey by Major Frank L. Beals, an assistant superintendent, showed 60 per cent of the city's employed were engaged in trade and industry, 33 per cent in commercial lines and only 6 per cent in the professions. On the other hand, 84 per cent of high school students were taking college preparatory courses and but 16 per

The car, driven by J. A. Cummings, of Warrenton, N. C., a marine on furlough, turned over near here. Cummings, who suffered only minor hurts, said the mechanism of the steering gear broke and the car got out of control.

PRESIDENT CALLS FOR COOPERATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A plea from President Roosevelt rallied all citizens Monday to help the government find out this week the number and location of the unemployed.

Climaxing weeks of organization for the voluntary census of the unemployed, the president appealed last night in a radio address for the support of all interested in finding a "permanent cure" for unemployment.

"The permanent cure," he said, "lies in finding suitable jobs in industry and agriculture for all willing workers. * * * That is a long and difficult problem to find the answer to and it may take many efforts in the coming years to find the right answer. But in the meantime, we need more facts."

Only those unemployed or partially employed are to return the census cards which will be distributed tomorrow by 150,000 postmen to every home in the United States.

The cards are to be returned, postage free, by Saturday. When their answers have been compiled the government expects to know besides the number of unemployed: Their ages, where they live and what sort of work they are qualified to do.

The president indicated he considered this last topic of great importance, so that there may be "cooperative effort and planning which will lead to the absorption of this unused man-power in private industry."

In preparation for the census, government agencies have rallied national cooperation to an extent not equalled since the Liberty loan "drives" of the World war.

AGED KIDNAP VICTIM DIES

The other suspects, John Travis, 24, and Orville Adkins, 24, were watched but not questioned, Swann said.

Federal agents who brought the charges of attempted extortion were unable to explain how Dr. Seder was held in the mine, but expressed the belief he had been unguarded. Dr. Henry D. Hatfield said the victim's feet might have been bound, since they were swollen and bruised. Investigators did not disclose how the former missionary left the mine. No ransom was paid, they said.

The three prisoners are held under $50,000 bond in Charleston jail on the federal charges, but Prosecutor Winters previously asserted he would demand the death penalty for the three "whether Dr. Seder lives or dies."

They have not been arraigned on state charges of kidnaping which, upon conviction, also would carry the death penalty.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion. Sold everywhere. (c) Bell & Co. 1937.

crumbling under the weight of superior Japanese armaments, although the Chinese had about 400,000 troops in the field to Japan's 200,000.

After the Japanese captured Kunshan, a strong point near the center of the "Hindenburg line" 35 miles west of Shanghai, they reported more than 50,000 Chinese fleeing in confusion by road and canal toward Soochow. Japanese planes bombed the retreating line to turn the flight into complete rout.

Experts predicted the fall of Kunshan would hasten the Japanese advance to Soochow, still 20 miles west of the Japanese vanguard.

The main Japanese column pushed toward Soochow along the Shanghai-Nanking railroad, the Chih river and Soochow creek. Foreign military observers said the Chinese probably would make only rear-guard stands against the Japanese advancing through unfortified Cheni, Waiting, Waikwatan and Mwantuli.

7 LOSE LIVES AS SHIP SINKS

ment for exposure soon after the Mendota docked at 6 a.m., eastern standard time. All were suffering from parched and swollen throats, but whether any was seriously ill could not be learned immediately.

Commander Henry Coyle of the Mendota said the rescue was "extremely difficult," as a heavy swell made it almost impossible to see the seamen floating on small pieces of wreckage.

Coyle said he was told the radio operator and another member of the crew jumped fom the stricken ship without life preservers and drowned. A third was pulled through a life belt by a shark. A four, the one who went mad and bit the captain, died on the raft and his body washed into the sea.

Corrie, the Englishman, said: "I went over with a life belt and then picked up a life buoy as it floated by. The ship took me down with her and I heard her gurgle going down. I couldn't swim but grabbed a piece of timber and held on. Sharks cut at me ankle and I grabbed a stick and tried to scare them away.

"A seaplane finally spotted me and dropped a smoke bomb. It was some time before I was picked up. I am pretty sore but feel pretty strong."

Corrie said the vessel was heavily laden with scrap iron when she put out from Morehead City, N. C., and ran into heavy seas soon after leaving port. When she shipped water, then suddenly listed, he waited until she took two lurches and "stepped off into the water."

The captain said he drifted on the raft with several others for 32 hours before rescued.

Commander Coyle said "every man was accounted for" of the 28 aboard the vessel when she foundered. The boatswain, Francolas Kiladitis, died aboard the Mendota after being rescued. The Mendota brought in three other bodies, and three still were missing.

Six of the crew were saved from a waterlogged lifeboat by the Mallory tanker Swiftsure five hours after the freighter sank before dawn Saturday. The men abandoned ship only after they had waged a losing battle in the darkness trying to pump their vessel clear of the invading seas, and had sent frantic SOS messages crackling forth to be received by the Swiftsure, the coast guard and other agencies.

Alexander Dacoglu, second mate on the Greek freighter, said one man on the raft with him lost his hold and slipped into the sea two hours before the coast guard cutter appeared.

"Sharks were popping around most of the time," he said.

Dacoglu spoke through a Greek interpreter, as did the captain.

Members of the Mendota's crew said Bjarne O. Mevoy, mustached ship's cook, was found floating with $80 strapped to his leg.

Commander Coyle said, "I never saw anything like this disaster before. Four or five of the men are in pretty bad shape."

The commander, 48 years old, has been in the coast guard service since 1910 and has gone to the aid of distressed seamen many times before.

He said none of the seamen was found in lifeboats but three boats were found capsized near some of the drifting sailors. Most of these were picked up in groups of three or four, he said, over an area of four square miles. Some had managed to pull three or four boards together to make a sort of a raft.

Members of the freighter's crew said the lifeboats either were swept away or made useless by the sharp listing of the ship.

Commander Coyle praised the help of the naval coast guard planes in the search for the seamen. Bobbing up and down in the swells, he said it probably would have taken much longer to locate the men had it not been for the planes flying overhead and spotting them with smoke bombs. Seven planes in addition to five coast guard cutters and a mine layer joined in the search for the vessel.

The survivors were carried off the cutter on stretchers and hurried to the marine hospital by ambulance. Their faces and tongues were swollen and their eyes bloodshot. Several appeared in good condition and asked newspapermen for cigarettes. Many had nothing to say.

MOTION FILED TO QUASH JURY

because negroes were said to have been "systematically excluded" from service, is the first motion of its kind ever submitted in the criminal court here. A similar motion was overruled in the case of a negro who was charged with murder in Caldwell parish, the court ruling that no discrimination had been shown in the selection of jurymen.

Attorneys commenting on the motion, Monday declared that it was doubtless based on a ruling of the United States supreme court which upheld a similar motion in the case of one of nine negroes who had been convicted at Scottsboro, Ala., for rape and sentenced to die. The nation's highest tribunal in that case held that it was illegal to exclude persons of the negro race from serving on juries. The negro's conviction was reversed because of the ruling and he was granted a new trial.

Should the district court uphold the present motion submitted by Mr. Smith on behalf of Rev. Dierlamm, the indictment against the minister would automatically be set aside. Observers declared Monday that if the motion is upheld it might have repercussions on actions already taken by the present grand jury and petit jurors inasmuch as true bills found and guilty verdicts returned would have been the work of an alleged "illegally drawn venire."

A motion similar to that filed by counsel for Rev. Dierlamm was also filed Monday with Deputy Clerk Thurmon by Attorney George Wesley Smith, associated in the defense of Floyd Reed, negro, charged with the murder of Frank P. Nesbit, 52-year-old Monroe grocer, who was shot to death on the night of February 13.

Court officials Monday declared they did not know when the criminal session would commence here, this depending on the availability of a judge to sit on the local bench. Judge David I. Garrett, associate judge of the local district, was said to be holding civil court in Bastrop this week.

losses for one year, to be applied against adjusted net income in the following year in arriving at the basis for the undistributed profits tax.

Thus if a corporation had a net operating loss of $100 this year and a net income of $100 next year, he explained, the firm would have to pay no undistributed earnings levy—only the normal corporation tax.

The loss from this relief provision would be several million dollars, he estimated.

A proposal to help firms in the deficiency assessment field, which would work out this way:

If a corporation has submitted a $5,000 deduction from the undistributed profits tax in on eyear and the deduction finally is disallowed, the firm would have 60 or 90 days after the final determination in which to declare $5,000 in dividends. For the year in which the determination was made, Vinson said, the corporation thus could be relieved of paying an undistributed profits tax on an additional $5,000 on which it had not counted.

advance for more than four years," he said.

"The present decline has not reached serious proportions. But it has the effect of decreasing the national income—and that is a matter of definite concern."

Discussions with business men, large and small, and leaders of agriculture and labor, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, had made clear to him that "we have wisdom enough in the country today not only to check the present recession but to lay the groundwork for a permanent recovery."

"If the people are as willing as the government to use the economic knowledge gained in recent years," he said, "this recession need go no further.

"With the exercise of ordinary prudence, there is no reason why we should suffer any prolonged recession, let alone any general economic paralysis.

"Despite some maladjustments, which can be corrected, underlying conditions are favorable."

He said the fundamental situation was not to be compared with 1929 and said the obvious immediate task was increased use of private capital to create employment.

"A little later," the president said, "I will address you further in regard to proposals to encourage private capital to enter the field of new housing on a large scale * * *."

On the four points of his immediate program he listed:

1—"An all weather" surplus crop control plan aimed at "abundance without waste" and backed by new taxes should the cost exceed the regular budget.

In that connection, he said:

"I hope and believe that the supreme court will not again deny to farmers the protection which it now affords to others."

2—"Flexible" machinery to provide minimum wages, maximum hours and banishment of child labor.

3—Reorganization of government in the interest of "efficiency," but with a warning against trying to make "major savings" in this way.

4—Regional planning boards to "avoid waste and to give the nation its money's worth" from government expenditures.

"What these four subjects promise in continued and increased purchasing power—what they promise in greater efficiency in the use of government funds," Mr. Roosevelt said, "are intelligent foundations for the other plans for the encouragement of industrial expansion with government help. * * *

"If private enterprise does not respond, government must take up the slack."

The president declared that "the ultimate answer to the conditions of today" was "a cordial and confident cooperation not only between government and every kind of citizen—but also between every kind of citizen and his government."

"As never before in history," he said, "the well-being of those who have much, as well as those who have less, depends upon a contented society of good will where the good will rests on the solid foundation that all have enough."

After mentioning taxes and budget balancing, Mr. Roosevelt specifically included among other matters "receiving renewed examination," the problems of railroads and other public utilities where, he said, "because of thoroughly unsound financing extending over many past years solutions will frankly be difficult."

Before dispatching his message which he completed late last night, the president went over it at a conference with Vice-President Garner, Speaker Bankhead and Senator Barkley and Representative Rayburn, senate and house Democratic leaders.

In the finished message, which he soon thereafter sent by courier to the capitol, Mr. Roosevelt devoted two long paragraphs to taxation.

"Modifications adequate to encourage productive enterprise, especially for the smaller business," he said, "must not extend to the point of using the corporate form for the purpose of hiding behind it to reduce, or eliminate, taxes in a way not open to an individual, or partnership. Nor should we extend tax privileges to speculative profits on capital where the intent of the original risk was speculation rather than the actual development of productive enterprise. Nor can we at this time accept a revision of our revenue laws which involves a reduction in the aggregate revenues or an increase in the aggregate tax burdens of those least able to bear them."

As to lightening "the burden on the enterprise of the small business men," he said:

"Small businesses, or even those of average size, have difficulties of financing and distribution which are not shared by large corporations. Therefore, by special tax consideration they should receive more equal opportunity to compete with their more powerful competitors."

Work on such details should not obscure, the president said, the broad central truth that this administration has pledged itself to the people of the United States to carry on with a wide social program pointed toward higher living standards and a more just distribution of the gains of civilization.

"Deflation and inflation," he said in that regard, "are equal enemies of the balanced economy that will produce * * * progressive increase in national income."

ASKS PREVENTION OF DISASTER TO FARMERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15. — (AP) — President Roosevelt told congress today that something must be done to prevent minorities of farmers from bringing disaster to the majority.

"Our program," he said, in his message outlining his objectives for the special session, "should continue to be one planned and administered, so far as possible, by the farmers themselves.

"Here again, majority rule seems justified. If and when huge surpluses in any one crop threaten to engulf all the producers of that crop, our laws should provide ways by which a small minority may be kept from destroying the proceeds of the toil of the great majority."

The president threw that opinion into the midst of a confused legislative situation on farming.

Secretary Wallace has advocated compulsory surplus crop control and a processing tax to finance such a program and there was controversy among members of both senate and house agriculture committees as to whether either was advisable. Some members were arguing vehemently for a voluntary control system. Neither committee was ready to recommend a program which originally was the first order of business of the session.

With his recommendations for an "all-weather" farm program, the president expressed the view that congress could write a farm program within the constitution.

"I believe," he said, "that the courts themselves are coming to have increasing regard for the true nature of the constitution as a broad charter of democratic government which can function under the conditions of today. * * *

"I hope and believe that the supreme court will not again deny to farmers the protection which it now accords to others."

The house and committee discarded last week marketing quotas for wheat, cotton and rice which would help guarantee Secretary Wallace's plan for an ever-normal granary. It probably will approve this scheme for corn.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated his plea that congress immediately provide revenue to meet any scheme of increased benefits it might approve.

ROOSEVELT PROGRAM FOR SESSION GIVEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Here are the measures on President Roosevelt's program for the special session:

Wage-Hour—A bill to set up a board with authority to fix maximum hours for interstate industries at 40 a week or more, and minimum wages at $16 a week or less which has passed the senate but is bottled up in the house rules committee.

Farm—House and senate committees are working on bills to control crop production. The big issue is whether to make control compulsory or voluntary.

Government Reorganization — The house has passed two bills to rearrange agencies and has two more ready; the senate has on its calendar one measure covering all four house bills.

Regional Planning—Both chambers have held hearings on bills to set up seven regional authorities to plan flood control, navigation, power and soil conservation improvements.

Anti-monopoly—No administration program has yet been drafted. Senators Borah, Republican, Idaho, and O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, have proposed requiring of federal charters for corporations doing interstate business.

Besides these subjects congress may, and probably will, discuss:

Tax Revision—With major emphasis on modifying the undistributed corporate surplus tax.

Neutrality—Involving the president's policy on the Sino-Japanese conflict and his proposal for concerted action to "quarantine" war.

The Black Appointment—Since congress adjourned in August, Supreme Court Justice Black has said he once belonged to the Ku Klux Klan.

Wagner Labor Law Revision—Criticism of this measure has come not only from employers but from the American Federation of Labor.

Anti-Lynching—A bill passed by the house last summer has preferred status on the senate calendar.

NEAR STAMPEDE TO REVISE TAXES ARISES

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A near stampede to revise taxes on business developed today at the start of the special session of congress, increasing the almost unparalleled confusion over the legislative program.

Even before President Roosevelt's opening message was received at perfunctory noon sessions of the two houses, administration leaders encountered a vigorous campaign to sidetrack the chief executive's program.

Many of the president's strongest supporters in congress joined with his critics in asking for modification of the capital gains and corporate undistributed profits taxes and for other steps designed to stimulate business.

Conflicts, even within administration ranks, on the president's legislative proposals added to the uncertainty over what the session would accomplish. The chief executive outlined five major objectives for the session—wage-hour standards, crop control, government reorganization, regional planning and anti-trust legislation. None was ready in either house except government reorganization.

Despite the complexities of the situation, Speaker Bankhead forecast the special session would "carry through substantially the program" outlined by the president.

President Roosevelt's decision to send his message instead of delivering it in person robbed the opening day of much of its customary drama.

The scope of the campaign to modify the corporate surplus tax was emphasized by two last minute statements advocating revision—one from Senator Schwellenbach, Democrat, Washington, an administration stalwart, and the other from Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, a frequent critic.

Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, another loyal Rooseveltian, in a New York address last night urged congress to "reform the capital gains tax and the undistributed profits tax."

Senator Norris, Independent, Nebraska, expressed willingness to modify the tax laws if defects are demonstrated, but he said in a statement that the public utilities and "big business" were "evidently tryng to scare congress into carrying out a program for big business instead of carrying out the president's program."

A revolt of still undetermined strength was being organized against the president's foreign policies.

Many Republicans and some Democrats were critical of the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has not invoked the neutrality law in the far eastern conflict, and of his hints of cooperative action against Japan.

Another uncertainty was provided by the position of the anti-lynching bill on the senate calendar. The senate during the summer gave it preferred status for this session as the first order of business after the farm bill.

Since the farm legislation was not ready because of a dispute over the best method of controlling production, senate leaders proposed to call up the government reorganization bill. Friends of the anti-lynching bill, however, said they would try to get their measure to the floor tomorrow.

The house also arranged to debate government reorganization tomorrow, but in the background was a heated controversy over the wage-hour bill, buried in the rules committee.

for the declaration but not robbing it of the unanimity other delegates desired; vote flatly against it and go on record as having done so; or demand time for further consultations with Rome.

The third possibility, if pressed by the Italian delegate, would place conferees in a difficult position.

Delegations had hoped to adjourn tonight so that the chairman, Foreign Minister Paul Spaak of Belgium, might accompany King Leopold on a state visit to London tomorrow.

Adjournment also might give Japan a third and final chance to make some conciliatory gesture before the start of the second phase of the conference—probably discussion of the appeal of the Chinese delegate, Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, for direct aid to China.

If Italy insisted on playing for time, the conference would be faced with deciding whether to go ahead without her, which almost certainly would offend Mussolini, or to keep the whole affair in a state of suspension until Spaak's return.

SECRETIONS IN INJURY CALLED CANCER CAUSE

Nearby Cells Multiply Abnormally, Thus Promoting Disease

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Tracing 10 years of experiments, Dr. George Sperti, internationally-known scientist and director of the Institutum Divi Thomae, published today in the institution's journal results of new researches showing that a direct cause of cancer lies in secretions given off by injured body cells.

"Quite definitely, we have no cure for cancer," says Dr. Sperti, "but, of course, that is a goal toward which we and many other scientists are working.

"It may be a year, 10 years, or a century, before any cure for cancer is found, although we believe our discovery is a step toward that end."

Dr. Sperti, at 37, is a member of the Pontifical Academy of Sciences and has been recognized in the field of science since his early 20's.

Dr. Sperti modestly credited the find to two members of his staff, Dr. John R. Loofbourow and Sister Cecilia Marie Dwyer, S. C.

Dr. Loofbourow asserted the secretions given off by injured cells had been found to stimulate cell growth such as occurs in healing and that "cancer resembles an over-enthusiastically healing injury."

Dead cells, he said, do not expel the cancer hormone. Wounds, such as cuts or burns, kill most of the injured cells and malignancy does not result, but if large volumes of cells are injured over long periods of time, the production of stimulating products may be sufficient to cause malignancy.

Dr. Loofbourow said secretions given off by the injured cells caused nearby cells to multiply. Such growth, uncontrolled, he believes to result in cancer. He said the research would continue toward finding a means to regulate this "community cell life."

The Institutum Divi Thomae is a graduate school of scientific research founded and maintained by the Cincinnati archdiocese of the Roman Catholic church.

Dr. Sperti, whose recent work has included the perfection of a vitamized soap and the invention of a sun lamp, formerly was identified with the University of Cincinnati.

RAILROAD MAGAZINE REVIEWS GOOD WILL BANQUET IN MONROE

The current issue of the Missouri Pacific magazine carries on its first news page a picture of the diners at the good will banquet held at Hotel Virginia last month. It also gives a detailed write-up of the banquet which was attended by 450 persons in honor of the Louisiana state industrial board which was represented by its executive director, Ernest Lee Jahncke, principal speaker of the evening; Aubrey Bartlett president of the Bartlett Chemical company, New Orleans, and M. C. McDonald, general manager of the Brown Paper mill.

Following a story of the various talks delivered, the article stated:

"More than 200 couples, who were unable to attend the banquet, participated in the dance which followed the dinner and entertainment.

"Railroad 'atmosphere' predominated in the arrangements; a locomotive bell summoned the guests to dinner, while an observation car platform, railroad signals and crossing signs featured the dining room decorations. Tables were adorned with flowers which were delivered to Monroe hospitals at the close of the program.

"Too much credit cannot be given Chief Booster S. A. Moss and his associates for their work in planning and carrying this dinner through to conclusion. Its success was typical of the Monroe Boosters, whose good will campaign seems to know no monthly or seasonal limits but is a perpetual and growing institution."

'BUCK' CLARK ARRESTED

"Buck" Clark, 24, a resident of ward eight, Monday was in the Ouachita parish jail under $1,000 bond on a charge of carnal knowledge. Clark was arrested early Monday morning by the West Monroe police and turned over to the sheriff's department. The warrant for his arrest, which was signed by Judge Jesse S. Heard, was sworn out by W. C. Lowery of ward eight.

POLL RECEIPTS ISSUED SLOWLY

Only Fourth Of Ouachita Voters Have Signed State Books

Approximately one-fourth of the 16,000 eligible voters in Ouachita parish have signed the state poll receipt books to date, according to a report made by the sheriff's office Monday.

With only six weeks remaining to voters to sign the poll tax receipt books, Sheriff Milton Coverdale urges Ouachita parish voters to call at the office in the courthouse and sign the books and get their receipts if they would be eligible to vote in 1938.

"Only those having poll tax receipts for 1936 and 1937 are qualified to vote in elections to be held in 1938," Sheriff Coverdale explained. "Next year two important elections are scheduled, the congressional election and the West Monroe municipal election."

Heretofore, the office in charge of the poll tax receipt books has been swamped by voters who wait until the last few days to get their receipts, it was said. The poll tax books will be closed December 31 and Ouachita parish voters are urged to get their receipts as soon as possible and avoid the usual last minute rush.

The Monroe News-Star is an independent newspaper. It prints the news impartially. It supports what it believes to be right. It opposes what it believes to be wrong, without regard to party politics.

The Profession Of Bunk

It would be helpful to voters and to all persons interested in government if politicians would get into the habit and adopt the practice of speaking with sincerity and fairness, and with the idea of acquainting the public with the facts.

But how many declarations made by politicians can you believe? Not only may they be sadly mistaken in their conclusions and apprehensions, but often—very often—they set out with the deliberate intention of misleading their hearers and readers. Often things are stated as facts which are not facts, while facts are purposely twisted and distorted out of all resemblance to themselves. Prophesies are made with impressive solemnity which the prophets themselves do not believe, but which are meant to deceive. Unfounded, vicious attacks are made on everything—no matter how worthy—which the opposition does or has done.

The political policy of this nation is such that one has no assurance whatever that any political statement has a grain of truth in it, or that the maker of the statement himself believes it has a grain of truth in it.

Some politicians are honorable and sincere, but the overwhelming majority of them are tainted by the political custom of being reckless with the truth and of placing party loyalty above morality. It is actually distressful to persons who want the political truth to witness the widespread practice of dishing up the wildest, rankest sort of balderdash and passing it out, with shrewd imitation of earnest sincerity, for the public to swallow.

As things are now, the voter virtually wastes his time when he listens to political propaganda, for fact is so mixed with fiction, and truth with error, that he knows no more than he knew before.

When it is all summed up, there is usually just one thing the average voter can do: He can help elect men in whose judgment and integrity he has confidence and leave the affairs of government to them. And that, by the way, was the intention of the founders of our government.

Note: The word "buncombe," from which the word "bunk" is derived, came to have its present meaning because of a speech made by a politician—one Felix Walker. Walker, a member of the 16th congress, 1819-21, represented a district in North Carolina in which was situated the county of Buncombe. While Walker was speaking to a certain question, the house became impatient for a vote on the matter. But Walker insisted on finishing his speech, declaring that the people of his district expected it and that he was bound to "make a speech for Buncombe."

Thus, "buncombe" has come to be defined by Webster's dictionary as: "Speechmaking to please constituents, or gain applause; anything said, written, or done for mere show; insincere public action or speech; hence, nonsense; 'rot.'"

Octogenarians

Ida M. Tarbell is 80 years young and Frank B. Kellogg will attain his 81st birthday on Dec. 22. To students of American economic history their names are closely associated with that of Theodore Roosevelt, who, if living, would now be in his 80th year. They played their several and important parts in the "trust-busting" first decades of this century, and to each of them was reserved subsequent worthy and honorable achievement.

Miss Tarbell's two-volume "History of the Standard Oil Company," published in 1904, instantly struck fire with the country. It was hailed with delight by Mr. Roosevelt, then still in his first term, and was the harbinger of a series of attacks on great monopolies. Although Mr. Kellogg was senior partner of an important firm of corporation lawyers in St. Paul, the president turned to him unerringly as one man who could fight the trusts to a finish.

As a biographer of Abraham Lincoln repute came to Miss Tarbell both before and after the writing of the Standard Oil book, and she was noted as a magazine editor and later as a lecturer. Mr. Kellogg, the trust-baiter, was in after life notably a man of peace. He served one term in the senate, was defeated, and later became secretary of state in the cabinet of President Coolidge, was the author of the international pact against war and served with distinction as the successor on the World court of Charles Evans Hughes.

Here were three persons, Miss Tarbell, President Roosevelt and Mr. Kellogg, who, all in their 40s, profoundly affected the American economic and political scene.

Nordic Angles

Nordic is as Nordic does. The third volume of the new German encyclopedia, to deal with a world supposed to have been made over by Nazi philosophy, comes down well into the E's. It is not surprising to find the great Einstein referred to as a "parlor pink," but it will come as a jolt to the world to learn that "the so-called theory of relativity" got its prominence from "propaganda in the Jewish press" rather than by its almost appalling the scientific thought of the day.

Marriage is not marriage unless a union of persons of equal race and the same heredity, pronounces the encyclopedia, and Christian principles of love and humility are opposed to the German idea of honor. Well, let these things pass. But to learn within a week of the volume's appearance that hereafter for the new Germany the right angle is to consist not of 90 but 100 degrees is rather flabbergasting. And every degree is to consist of 100 minutes and every minute of 100 seconds.

That seems pretty much a concession to the principle of the metric system of Latin France. It will require some looking into, no doubt, when Hitler surveys the boundaries of those colonies he insists on having.

Somebody wants to know what becomes of the youthful prodigy. He works for the fellow who spent two years in the fifth grade.

Reformers are all alike. If you don't approve their methods, you are an enemy of virtue, heathen, home and mother.

Uncommon Sense
By JOHN BLAKE

A LECTURE ON CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

Yesterday I listened to a psychologist lecture on childhood fears. He told how he cured a little girl of her terror of thunderstorms.

It wasn't as technical as you might have expected. This was all he did:

He talked to the little girl's mother. He told her to sit in the same room with her daughter whenever there was a thunderstorm. He told her to be cheerful, to try to read something amusing to her or to tell the kind of funny stories children love to hear. "Don't let her go away by herself during a storm," he advised; "keep her with you until it is well over."

In addition to that he told the mother to discuss the child's fear with her. "Let her talk about it as much as she likes. Don't act as though it were anything out of the ordinary. On bright days when there isn't a cloud in the sky tell her something about storms. Explain what causes thunder. But do it all as casually as possible. Don't let it sound like a deliberate campaign."

After several months the child got over her fear. And a change took place in her in many other ways. Her school work improved. She had more self-confidence.

Whereas if she had gone in her terror it undoubtedly would have affected her in later life. When she grew up she would have found it harder to face the realities of life.

As simple as that. No dark rooms with elaborate medical equipment, no analysis of dreams, no psychoanalysis. Just plain common sense. But he touched on a vital human truth; the advantage of encouragement in dealing with people.

He finished with a few generalizations and taboos for parents.

"Don't ever try to make a child feel ashamed of its fears. Don't just dismiss a child's fears with 'Oh, forget it!' Or, 'Don't be a baby.' Avoid all misunderstandings.

"If you want to make your child brave tell him stories of bravery and courage. But don't think you can produce the same affect by shaming him into it."

It all sounds simple. His work proved it to be effective. Turning a terror-stricken child into one with self-confidence and courage is an achievement to be proud of. With him it's a daily occurrence.

What is true of children happens to be true of grown-ups. A few intelligent people get remarkable results practicing his principles.

One of the most successful teachers I ever knew, a man who has produced distinguished pupils, used to say that a pint of encouragement was worth a barrel of criticism. His method was to teach his students to find themselves by encouraging them to try their own powers.

You seldom hear of any remarkable results from brow-beating. As a temporary expedient it sometimes works. But for permanent results the men who have known how to encourage have accomplished the most. The brow-beater's effect is more generally destructive because he is a man who fears something himself. The brave man who can offer hope is constructive.

You can't scold men into good deeds as well as you can praise them into performing them.

CUTTING A BIRTHDAY CAKE

What is more lovely than a cake
Baked for a birthday? Bright,
With candles set in gay array?
Is there a fairer sight?

Is there a merrier moment than
That one, when glowing, it
Is set before the birthday child
With every taper lit?

Almost too beautiful to cut,
A part of fairyland
It seems, with hope ascending and
Each wish at its command.

It's hard to cut a birthday cake,
But when at last you do,
Be sure to have the birthday child
Ensure the wish come true

By blowing out with one great puff
Each shining golden light;
That is the proper way to do
The final trusted rite.

They Call It Politics
By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—One of the reasons why Franklin D. Roosevelt was pleased with the election of Fiorello H. LaGuardia as mayor of New York stands out a score thumb every time a group of Republicans get together. The "Little Flower" has used the Republican label many times to his own advantage, but he has never been regarded as a Republican by the wheel horses of the party throughout the country.

One Republican senator, discussing this angle of the situation shortly after the New York city election, said, "If I want a New Dealer, why not take Roosevelt himself?"

Underlying this is the fact that "Republican" and "Democrat" have lost their meaning, as far as the words meant anything to voters of just a few years back. Old-time Democrats would now be regarded as Tories, just the same as old-fashioned Republicans.

Complicating this situation is the south, with its fiery devotion to the Democratic label, which yet remains the most conservative section of the country.

It is pointed out by many Republican leaders that District Attorney-elect Thomas E. Dewey of New York county seems to have captured the imagination of the country. For one reason and another Dewey has had the most marvelous publicity any recent arrival on the political stage has been able to obtain. Yet even as a running mate with LaGuardia he has constantly professed devotion to the Republican party.

Actually nothing has developed to disclose whether Dewey is a conservative or a radical—to show to which of the two really important groups of political thinkers in this country today he belongs. There is talk, however, of his running for governor of New York.

This may be history repeating itself, but the question arises: which chapter?

Old-timers think of Grover Cleveland, the fearless sheriff of Buffalo who became governor, and later was twice president. Others think of Theodore Roosevelt, who used the executive mansion at Albany as a way station to the White House. And of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who became the logical nominee for president the day he was elected governor in 1928, when Al Smith was losing his own state in his presidential race.

But there are other chapters. Charles S. Whitman made his reputation, as has Dewey, as prosecuting attorney in New York. He too captured the popular imagination when he broke up the rackets of that day, when he sent Police Lieutenant Charles Becker and four gamblers' gunmen to the electric chair. And Whitman dreamed of the White House! Let no one be mistaken about that. But for one reason and another he just did not fit into the picture.

Charles E. Hughes made a reputation as an attorney in the life insurance investigation. He became a great governor of New York. But he was sidetracked. The fact that the party turned to him later, after he had been cloistered on the supreme court bench, is another story. But so far as the element of timing is concerned—the element that played into the hands of Cleveland and the two Roosevelts—he missed the boat.

So it would seem the tradition is better for Democrats than for Republicans, except this—there is simply no one else on the public horizon so far as the Republican party is concerned. That's why you are going to hear a lot about Mr. Dewey from now on.

WHEEL, TIRE STOLEN

An automobile wheel and casing were stolen from an automobile belonging to W. J. Greenan, 1905 Jackson street, Sunday night, according to a report made by the Monroe police department Monday. The car was said to have been parked in front of Greenan's residence when the wheel and casing were stolen.

BEN F. HAIR RITES HELD AT CROWVILLE

WINNSBORO, La., Nov. 15.—(Special)—Funeral services for Ben F. Hair, 65, father of J. D. Hair, assessor of Franklin parish, were held Monday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Crowville cemetery. Mr. Hair was a life-long resident of Franklin parish and a prominent merchant at Baskin. He died at his home there Sunday night.

He is survived by three sons, Curtis B. Hair of Monroe, who is employed by Faulk-Collier Warehouse company, Inc., Jesse W. Hair of Baton Rouge, state director of physical education, and J. D. Hair of Winnsboro, assessor of Franklin parish; two sisters, Mrs. Ida Griffin of Bastrop, and Mrs. Bell Randolph of Baskin.

15 Years Ago

November 15, 1922

After a series of delays brought about by numberless difficulties and extending over a period of several years, the two new school buildings for Monroe, Leonidas Barkdull Faulk and the Georgia Tucker schools have been virtually completed. The two school additions were first suggested in 1919, to care for what at that time was termed "the phenomenal growth of the school population of the city." Powerful interests in Monroe as well as the support of the present municipal administration, have figured in the construction of the two schools. Financial difficulties have retarded the completion of the buildings. The completed buildings are in a style especially suited for their purposes and have been constructed on the plenty of light and fresh air plan. Milton King, local architect, designed the buildings.

Colvin B. Brown, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, at Washington, will speak in Monroe, November 21. Mr. Brown is chief of the organization service bureau in the civic development department. He will discuss the work of his department before members of the chamber of commerce here.

Max and Julius Fink, formerly subjects of Russia, Frank Bruscato, John Zagone and Joe Jacola, who until today owed allegiance to King Immanuel, all of whom are now Monroe residents, were sworn in this morning in the sixth district court as United States citizens and took the oath of allegiance administered by the clerk of court, Pat Hamilton.

Family Health
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

In vitiligo, pigment entirely disappears from some areas on the skin. These spots appear white in contrast with the rest of the skin and are much more prominent when the rest of the skin is tanned or sunburned. The cause for this absence of pigment is not known.

Vitiligo also occurs in negroes, making them appear to be turning white and there are cases on record in which most of the pigment has disappeared from the skin of a colored person.

Perhaps some condition of the nervous system is related, but this is not known with certainty. Apparently there is no drug that is of any value in the treatment of this condition.

It has been suggested that those who are exceedingly sensitive have their skin painted with some of the cosmetic preparations now available so that the white spots will not be so prominent.

In the ordinary processes of commercial tattooing, coloring matter is introduced purposely into the skin. It is quite possible, however, for people to be accidentally tattooed as, for example, when a shotgun explodes a fine charge of powder into the skin. Certain substances may irritate the skin and color it permanently. This is one of the dangers of self-treatment of various diseases. Cases have been reported of coloration of the skin by copper, mercury, bismuth and silver.

Removal of coloring material from the skin may be difficult. It involves irritation and inflammation with the peeling away of superficial layers to get down to the area where the pigment is held. There are records of a considerable number of cases in which this coloring has been successfully removed.

Two chief substances in tattooing are carbon in the form of China ink which appears blue, and cinnabar which looks red. Most tattooing tends to fade gradually because the blood will remove the particles as it removes other foreign substances from the body. This, however, may require many years of time.

Best advice about tattooing is not to have it done.

NEGRO CHARGED IN ATTEMPTED ASSAULT

MANCHESTER, Tenn., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Bob Robertson, 25-year-old negro, faced today a charge of attempting criminally to assault a white woman near here last Saturday night.

Sheriff J. A. Barton said the negro was arrested a few hours after the alleged attempted assault and later Sunday moved to an unrevealed jail because of the high feeling in this section.

Barton said the victim of the attempted attack was Mrs. Gertrude Messick, a widow who lives at her filling station at Beech Grove, 12 miles from Manchester.

The officer said Mrs. Messick drove the intruder from her quarters after a hard struggle, but that she escaped without serious injuries.

MOST OF RELIEFERS UNFITTED FOR WORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—A survey today disclosed that 201,350 persons, or 57 per cent of the 349,350 adults on city relief rolls here, were unfitted for gainful work.

Officials of the emergency relief bureau and the department of public welfare estimated the monthly cost of caring for these "unemployables" and their children was $5,200,000, plus another $500,000 for administration.

Relief officials have formulated a program of vocational retraining for members of the group they believe can be rehabilitated.

HOLLYWOOD SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

By Paul Harrison

HOLLYWOOD—All over the lot: An opera stage is the current set for "The Yellow Nightingale," and the scene is a Persian garden. It was on this stage that Gladys Swarthout received her much-publicized pelting with squishy tomatoes.

Anyway, the scene is a Persian garden, decorated with 20 flimsily-clad harem beauties and dancers, flowering trees and graceful archways. Over one arch is a Persian inscription in Arabic script. The writing has been reproduced accurately because it was copied from a photograph taken in Persia.

A visitor on the set is Dr. Ameen Fareed, Persian, scholar and local psychiatrist. He looks at the arch and laughs. It seems that the scrawling inscription is not a quotation from Omar Khayyam, nor yet from Sadi nor Hafiz.

It says: "The very best of fish are for sale at this place."

The studio will let it stand.

"Actor" Lubitsch

Ernst Lubitsch is directing Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper in a bit of hot argument for a scene in the comedy, "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife." And whenever Lubitsch directs, he does more acting than anybody on the set.

The dispute seems to be over Cooper's purchase of a costly antique bathtub which turns out to be merely a foot tub. After several rehearsals Lubitsch still doesn't get the degree of excitement that he wants, so he steps up and heavily accented words does the scene with Cooper.

Miss Colbert goes into shrieks of laughter. "You see!" says the director, triumphantly. "That way it is very funny."

"It isn't that," chokes the actress. "Never in my life did I hear anybody mess up the English language as you do and still make himself understood!"

How to Get a Head

Tim Holt, son of Jack, is one of the principals in Warner Brothers' super-western, "Gold Is Where You Find It." He's a two-fisted youngster and has to do some defensive brawling in a saloon with some miners. He socks one tough customer, and the latter falls.

Michael Curtiz, perhaps the ablest director of fast action, has arranged the shot so that Holt's fist doesn't actually connect the man's jaw. But the victim's head must jerk back realistically and he must fall limply.

"Let go yourself!" storms Curtiz who also massacres the English language. "Like a rock, fall hard. What do you care should you hit your head? If you hit your head, that makes you a stunt man and you get five bucks extra!"

And He Did "Shuddup!"

"Having Wonderful Time," the Ginger Rogers-Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., flicker, is full of hard, wise-cracking youngsters, and the script is full of the frequently used retort, "Aw, shuddup!"

By this time, everybody on the set is using the catch-phrase as a response for practically anything.

If you were to say, "Good morning, Miss Rogers," she'd probably strike a pose and answer, "Awww, shuddup!"

Other afternoon a dozen cuties who dance in the picture were draped on the steps outside the main entrance to RKO. They had been working eight hours with little rest and were pretty well bushed. Now, in pajamas and dragging on cigarets, they were lolling at the main gate, waiting for a bus.

A man came across the street and delivered a little lecture. He said that the girls ought to move down the street a little. It was very undignified, sprawling here this way at the entrance to a great studio.

The tired girls didn't move. Then, as if on cue, they chorused, "Aww-w shud-dup!"

The man's jaw dropped. Without another word, Samuel J. Briskin, vice president in charge of production, went on into the studio.

IN NEW YORK

By George Ross

NEW YORK—There were nights when Broadway lights flickered off at the milkman's hour. The grey and black of the night crept over the gay white way after 3 a.m. And the effulgent stem grew depressingly dark in the shadow of the giant signs and marquees.

But those nights are gone, too, with the constant march of the neons; and the running electrics that spell out messages all night, in praise of this product or that. These behemoths of electricity stay on these nights until all hours and the giant cabarets don't turn chairs off until near-dawn. Now when dray horses clatter along dark blocks, the main stem remains as bright as in the high hours of the evening.

Signs Of Popularity

Broadway's signs, by the way, become bigger and better and more ingenious with each passing day. The novelty of a complete animated cartoon romping among the many bulbs of a big sign, has worn off. Pedestrians now demand ever more brilliant tricks. A little while ago, a genius of the mazdas contrived to have live steam emanate from the electric coils in advertisement of a film having to do with devil's fire. These, in the parlance of their makers, are known as "Spectaculars."

Probably the most highly illuminated place on Broadway is the International Casino, with a glittering array of electrics that runs halfway around the block and keeps pedestrians busy reading a continuous blurb about the place. A like sign on an opposite corner gives a lot of topical information such as the weight of last year's fullback on Notre Dame's team, along with a blurb about this whiskey or that.

Innumerable people who pass along the main stem and marvel at the free incandescent shows atop the buildings, write fan letters to the makers of the products they advertise. Douglas Leigh, who devises many of Broadway's most brilliant electric displays, gets at least a fourth as much fan mail as an average movie player. That, among the sign makers, is a sign of true fame.

And they tell the story, well confirmed, of the maharajah who strode Broadway one night and admired the electric sign that stood outstandingly on the other end of the Rialto. He admired it so much that he ordered a replica built in his oriental palace. He turns it on now and then, they say, to startle and impress distinguished guests.

Room Service

Sunday information: Real estate agents tell you that the easiest rooms to rent out are those numbered 711. The hardest rooms in New York office buildings for realty brokers are those bearing the numerals 13. But the old bugaboo about numbering the 13th floor, 12A, has worn off.

The row, I, in the alphabetical arrangement of theater seating, will be found in few playhouses around Manhattan. Too confusing to ushers; they get it mixed up with the number, 1.

It's nothing to get excited about but more than two per cent of the people in the United States are named either Smith, Jones or Johnson.

Stamp collectors, an authority in such matters certifies, if stood up end to end, would comprise three square miles in the United States.

The most talkative character in all of Shakespeare's works is Hamlet, who has 1,659 lines to speak.

AXES USED IN ATTACKS UPON NIGHT SPOTS

National Guards Make Raids Under Governor White's Orders

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 15.—(P)—National guardsmen armed with axes replaced ignored warnings, and legally contested court orders, in the latest drive of Governor Hugh White's vice squad against Rankin county's night spots.

Major T. B. Birdsong, heading the governor's law enforcement drive, substituted the axe late Saturday night and descended upon the Jackson suburban night club center with 68 officers and men of the national guard.

The guardsmen said they found one hundred cases of liquor, twenty-nine slot machines, six dice tables and other gambling equipment. The gambling machines and devices were destroyed. Eighteen arrests were made.

Major Birdsong, one-time police chief at Clarksdale before taking over the governor's law enforcement campaign, indicated that he expected to find out where an alleged tipoff came from.

The national guard officer declined to discuss his plans today.

He proceeded with plans for the trial of Saturday night's defendants before Justice of the Peace J. T. Neely in East Jackson Monday, November 22.

Nine places were raided by the guardsmen. They were named: Bazooka, Dew Drop Inn, The Last Place, Owl's Nest, Jackson Club, McPhail's, Ed Garrett's, Willie Stevens Night Club, Brother Reed's Place.

The raiding parties detained guests in the various night clubs momentarily, collecting names and automobile numbers, but arrested only those accused of operating the clubs.

The liquor and gambling equipment that was not destroyed by the axe was brought to Jackson and stored in the national guard armory. Major Birdsong said it would be destroyed after the trials.

FACULTY ATHLETIC COMMITTEE CONVENES

RUSTON, La., Nov. 15—(Special)—A meeting of the faculty athletic committee of Louisiana Tech was being held here Monday afternoon to make arrangements for continuing the school's football program. The meeting was called because of the critical injuries received by Eddie McLane, and injuries received by two other Tech coaches, Herb Duggan and Mike Welsh, in an automobile accident near Bunkie Saturday night.

The faculty committee, following its discussion of possible arrangements, was to present arrangements decided upon as suggestions to the varsity football team.

A general conviction that the varsity team will continue its schedule was prevalent on the campus, but no authoritative information was forthcoming as to whether or not this would be the case if the athletic director does not survive his injuries.

O'Connell said a "liberal" group of house members, including himself, believed "the budget ought to be balanced as the president proposes, but not at the expense of our jobless citizens. We must keep them on WPA payrolls until private industry takes them off."

LAWYER'S PAY BASIS HIT IN STANDARD SUIT

lected from Standard and from other oil companies under similar contentions will amount to approximately $4,000,000.

Milling said the usual 10 per cent attorney fee should be sufficient for Wilkinson.

"If 10 per cent attorney's fee isn't pretty good on a $750,000 demand, I don't know anything about attorney's fees," Milling declared.

Wilkinson argued that perhaps the state never would collect back taxes unless it could employ special counsel for the detailed work required for the necessary litigations.

The late Senator Huey P. Long, Wilkinson said, recovered a great amount of taxes for the state while acting as special counsel under the 1934 legislative act. The act permits the attorney general to grant as much as 50 per cent of recovered taxes and penalties to special counsel he may employ for the recovery.

"It is possible," said Wilkinson, "that the state has a claim to $4,000,000 (in the gasoline tax cases) and, without reflection on its regularly-employed attorney, it is possible that without the special work done under this contract none of the money would reach the state.

"I am endeavoring to recover from the oil companies tax money which has been overlooked. The question of my fee is one that is subject to attack at a later date but not now. If I am permitted to prosecute, I intend to go on with this litigation even though I never get a nickel out of it."

Wilkinson asserted that since Standard claimed it owed no back taxes the company could not challenge distribution of the money should it be collected.

BAPTIST MINISTER FACES DEATH TRIAL

PITTSFIELD, Ill., Nov. 15—(P)—The Rev. C. E. Newton, a Baptist minister in northeast Missouri for 30 years and a former mayor of Kahoka, Mo., was scheduled to go on trial in Pike county circuit court here today charged with the slaying of Mrs. Dennis E. Kelly, 45, a member of his former congregation.

State's Attorney Merrill H. Johnston said last night the state would demand the death penalty for the 51-year-old, wiry bespectacled pastor.

Mrs. Kelly was the mother of two children. Newton had described her as his "devout friend." Her body was found floating in the Mississippi river near Louisiana, Mo., last July 13. The minister's arrest followed.

Two days later, State's Attorney Johnston announced Newton had confessed he tossed the woman into the river from the Mark Twain bridge linking Hannibal, Mo., and the Illinois shore after striking her on the head "with something. I think it was a hammer." Sheriff Winfield Johnson also placed the scene of the crime on a highway in Pike county, Illinois.

At his arraignment in August, Newton pleaded innocent. He since has been held in jail here without bail on a first degree murder charge.

MISSISSIPPI U. ON OKAYED LIST AGAIN

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 15—(P)—Chancellor A. B. Butts announced yesterday that the University of Mississippi has been reinstated to the approved list of the Association of American Universities.

Reinstatement followed approval by the committee on the classification of universities and colleges.

Chancellor Butts said: "This act ends a long road. The university was dropped from the approved list of universities in 1930. We have been working very hard for the past two years on this one thing, and the notification gives us assurance that stability of administration, improved faculty personnel, and better work generally at the university are now recognized facts."

Removal of the school from the approved list in 1930 followed disruption of its teaching faculty.

JEB STUART RIDES AGAIN!

RAILROAD WORKER SLAIN AT M'COMB

M'COMB, Miss., Nov. 15—(P)—James W. Byrd, 45-year-old railroad workman, was shot dead on a business thoroughfare last night in gunfire that periled a score of bystanders.

County Prosecuting Attorney Gordon Roach said Deputy Sheriff George Guy informed him he had shot Byrd after the latter had wounded J. E. Liles, 23, a railroad fireman, whom Byrd had seen riding in an automobile with Mrs. Byrd, 35.

Liles received shotgun wounds of the back. Physicians at McComb infirmary said his condition was not serious.

Deputy Guy escaped injury, but said shotgun slugs had pierced his coat.

Roach declared Mrs. Byrd told him she had been riding with Liles and that her husband had trailed them in another car.

Guy said he saw Byrd leave his automobile in the business section and open fire on Liles, who jumped out of the first car and ran.

Roach related that the deputy told him he had commanded Byrd to drop his shotgun, but the railroad worker fired at him and Guy shot him through the neck with one bullet from his revolver.

Roach said no charges have been filed. "I don't know all I want to know yet," he added.

Byrd's widow and two children survive him.

NEW YORK NOW FOOD CAPITAL

Gourmet Society Head Asserts Europe Lagging Well Behind

NEW YORK, Nov. 15—(P)—Take it from an authority, New York "definitely" has become the "world's culinary capital."

Such is the opinion of J. George Frederick, president of the Gourmet society, whose members last night officially opened the indoor fancy eating season—without benefit of pepsin tablets.

Frederick said Europe no longer could match New York on at least three counts: "culinary skill, variety of food and cuisines and relative prices."

"With the passing of Foyet's in Paris and other great restaurants there I do not think that it is any longer disputable that New York offers both the highest standards and the greatest variety of dining delight and culinary skill that is to be found in any city in the world," he said.

The gourmets, appetites whetted by an intellectual cocktail in the form of poetry readings by Charles Hanson Towne, did full justice to a repast prepared by [illegible], chef at the Astor.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. Miss Adelia Sandel Feted At Luncheon

Mrs. Charles Womack, Miss Ann Platt Hosts At Enjoyable Event Held In Cameo Room

Miss Adelia Sandel wore a smart Wallis blue wool ensemble with all accessories of the same delectable shade when she stood in the Cameo room of the Virginia hotel with her hostesses, Mrs. Charles Womack and Miss Ann Platt, to receive guests invited for luncheon, Saturday at 1 o'clock.

A pyramid of white chrysanthemums and blue baby-breath, with slender, silhouette tapers burning in their midst formed the central decor of the white satin, damask-covered table. Crystal epergnes, overflowing with white chrysanthemums and supporting white tapers, graced either end of the silver and crystal-appointed table.

Floral place cards were found at each cover and gracing the cover for the guest of honor was an exquisite corsage of white bride's roses and blue forget-me-nots.

A four-course luncheon was served to Miss Sandel, Mrs. Percy Sandel, Mrs. Victor Barringer, Mrs. John Herring, Mrs. G. P. Stubbs, Mrs. S. E. Huey, Mrs. James Trousdale, Jr., Mrs. Glenn Howell, Miss Ruth Atkins, Miss Ellen Kent Millsaps, Miss Elizabeth Kennedy.

The Cherokee terrace of the Frances hotel was placed at the disposal of Carolyn Apperson's young friends Saturday afternoon when she entertained with a party in commemoration of her seventh birthday anniversary.

The terrace, sufficiently colorful for any occasion, needed only the placement of flowers in the background of the alcove where the tea table was placed, to create an atmosphere of festivity. Yellow chrysanthemums in long wicker receptacles were in harmony with the yellow theme employed in the table decorations. The immense birthday cake centering the table was strewn with crystallized yellow roses. Yellow papier-mache cups tied with yellow ribbons held yellow embossed sweetmeats for all the guests. The ices served with individual, yellow embossed cakes, were also golden in color.

The cutting of the cake by the celebrant in yellow party frock, was one of the features of the occasion.

Paying their respects to the young hostess, who was assisted by her mother, Mrs. Edward Apperson, were: Marguerite Richards, Sally Foster, Betty McRoberts, Arden Girault, Nelwyne Moody, Jean Sugar, Millie Foreacre, Beverly Martin, Cornelia McHenry, Mary Wilton McHenry, Clayton Campbell, Jacquelyn Walker, Gwendolyn Walker, Jo Ann Meredith, Joy Harper, Billy Harper, Emily Anne Hoskins, Arabella Bancroft, Esther Ewing, Frances Whitesey, Anne Foreacre, Sue Ann Windes, Courtney Oliver, Jr., Daniel Bradford, Dick Troy, Jr., James Harrison, Bill Harrison, Judge Davis, Stanton Huey, Palmer Huey, Alymer Montgomery, Watkins Leigh, William Cragon, Jack Steele, Graham Humble, Graham Hewes, Billy Hatfield.

Fidelity Hive No. 221 and Ouachita tent No. 54 held a joint meeting Wednesday, November 10, at their club rooms.

Plans for the annual oyster supper and dance to be given December 10 were made at this time. Also, plans for the election of officers in December were discussed. State Manager M. J. Bulger, of New Orleans, delivered an important and interesting talk on the district rally to be held in Monroe in December. Members of the order from Urania, Clarks and Hodge will participate.

During the social hour the twenty members present enjoyed a Dutch supper.

Accent On Bust

The new brassiere silhouette molded to accent the bust and flatten the diaphragm appears in this winter blouse. Schiaparelli designed it of carbon-blue and white checked flannel to button primly down the front like an old-fashioned basque.

Selections from the opera, "Lucia Di Lammermoor," rendered by Mrs. Henry Whitfield, the story of the opera presented by Mrs. C. W. Oseland, and the life history of the composer, Donizetti, by Mrs. E. R. Whitaker, comprised the interesting program enjoyed by members of the Opera club in Mrs. E. C. Gibson's apartment at the Alvis hotel, with Mrs. Henry Hinkle, co-hostess.

An informal coffee hour permitted the members to welcome Mrs. W. F. Hornburgher, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., and Mrs. Paul Herron, into the club.

Present were: Mrs. Charles Bennett, Mrs. Marvyn Johnson, Mrs. J. E. Kersh, Mrs. C. S. Gaushell, Mrs. Paul Newman, Mrs. C. W. Oseland, Mrs. Crawford Young, Mrs. E. R. Whitaker, Mrs. W. C. Scott, Mrs. Elliott Thompson, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., Mrs. Paul Herron, Mrs. W. F. Hornburgher, and the two hostesses.

Miss Jane Gibbs of Los Angeles, Calif., who spent the summer traveling in Europe, is visiting relatives in Shreveport and will arrive this week to visit her sister, Mrs. J. J. Herring. Miss Gibbs has a wide circle of friends in this city, her former home, who will be glad indeed to learn of her decision to remain in Monroe for a month or more.

The Central Grammar school P.-T. A. will meet in the school auditorium Wednesday at 3:30 p. m.

The meeting will be of importance as it will be the last one held before teachers leave for Shreveport to attend the annual convention to be held there on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. Cicero Godfrey and Mrs. Ralph Barton poured from handsome silver tea services placed at either end of the table. The double ring motif was accentuated in the rings of salad and the embossing on the individual cakes, served during the afternoon.

FLAME TRAIL

BY MARIE DE NERVAUD

SYNOPSIS: Fire destroys Kay Crandon's ranch house and barn. Neighbor Josh Hastings tries to buy her ranch and court Kay, but she hates him and is determined to rebuild. Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, fights Scrap Johnson, a cowhand who molested Kay. They shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings finds them unconscious and kills Scrap with Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a cabin where a girl named Marion nurses him. The gun puts Sheriff Farley on Ted's trail. Kay sees Ted and Marion together in the cabin and rides off in jealous agony. She falls. Tom Runyon, the fire patrol, finds her and she babbles unconsciously of Ted's hideout.

Chapter 33

The Tip Off

TOM RUNYON stood up and turned his mount about, heading him down the trail. Then stooping, he gathered Kay in his arms, and lay her across the saddle.

Mounting behind her, he gathered her into his arms so that her head rested on his shoulder, and slowly and carefully started the descent.

By the time they reached the stream, it was clear that Kay was not going to be able to ride Flicker back to the ranch. Untying him, Tom gave him a sharp cut of his quirt, and listened while he splashed across the stream and headed up the trail of the western slope of the eastern divide. Then, holding Kay tightly to him, he guided his horse into the dark swirling water.

All through the long ride out of the mountains, Kay babbled on in her delirium, and Tom Runyon listened.

An ugly look flashed into his eyes whenever Kay mentioned Ted's name. It was evident that she thought more of Ted than Tom had supposed, but instead of shaking him from his purpose to win Kay for himself, it made him all the more determined.

As he made his plans for getting rid of his rival, Tom gave a vicious chuckle. He had him where he wanted him, all right! But it wouldn't do to take any chances on his making a get-away! He must get to a telephone as soon as possible.

Then Tom struck on a brilliant idea. Why not take Kay directly to the Flying Six? Her aunt was there, and she would be much better cared for, than in her little cabin. He had never met Josh Hastings, but he knew that he had been a friend of Kay's father, so he felt sure he'd be only too glad to look after her.

Suiting the action to the thought, Tom struck out across the mesa to the Flying Six.

Kay's delirious talk had subsided some time before, and she rested a dead weight in his arms, as he urged his mount on. Her breathing was even and reassuring. Even though she was undoubtedly suffering from concussion from her fall, the indications were that it was not serious. He knew it might be some time before she completely regained consciousness.

The late moon was rising in the east as they came in sight of the Flying Six ranch house, a dark rambling mass in the silver light. Following up a shrill whistle with a loud "Whoopee," Tom clattered up to the front steps.

Phoning The Sheriff

A LIGHT flickered past the living room windows, and the next minute, Josh Hastings pulled open the front door.

"Kay Crandon's had an accident, and I brought her here," Tom Runyon began, rather importantly. She——"

He got no farther. A shriek from Aunt Kate's open window was followed by shuffling footsteps down the hall, and Aunt Kate's dishevelled head appeared over Josh Hastings' shoulder.

"Where is she?" She imperiously pushed him aside and made for the steps, where she met Tom Runyon coming up with Kay in his arms.

"What's happened?" she demanded fiercely. "What have you done to her?"

"She had an ugly fall." Tom Runyon carried Kay up on the porch, and laid her down in the hammock. "She'll be all right," he added. "It's just a slight concussion, but I thought she'd be better off here, than she would be over at her place."

"You were dead right," Josh Hastings boomed. "We'll look after her, don't you worry. But where——"

"I'll tell you all that later." Tom broke in, leaving Aunt Kate fussing over Kay, while he beckoned Josh Hastings to one side. "I've got to get in touch with Zeke Farley P.D.Q."

Josh Hastings motioned him toward the door. "You'll find the phone right there on my desk." He followed Tom Runyon inside. "What's up?"

"I've located that Gaynor guy who's wanted for murder. Tom Runyon swelled with importance as he reached for the telephone. Intent on getting his number, he failed to see the gleam of triumph that quickly flashed in Josh Hastings' eyes.

"Where is he?" he demanded eagerly.

Tom motioned him to wait, as he bent to the telephone.

"This Zeke Farley? I'm Tom Runyon, the fire patrol. I want to tip you off about that Gaynor bird."

An explosive oath over the wire could be heard, even where Josh Hastings was standing.

"Yeah, I know where he is all right," Tom went on. "He's up in a cabin by a clearing on the south side of the central divide. Up there with a girl friend," he added, with a malicious laugh.

Again Josh Hastings could hear the sheriff's exclamation.

"Yeah, I said 'girl friend,'" Tom repeated. Kay Crandon saw them up there—that's how I know. He's there now. How long he'll be there, I can't tell you."

There was a long pause while Zeke Farley's voice rumbled over the wire.

"Reckon that's your best bet," Tom agreed finally. "I'm telephoning from the Flying Six."

There was another pause.

"O.K. I reckon they'll give me a shake down." Tom cocked an inquiring eye at Josh Hastings, who nodded his assent.

"What did he say?" he demanded eagerly, as Tom hung up the receiver.

"He's notifying Sam Cutter over in the Clear Water basin, and starting off to meet him there." Tom turned to the porch. "How about getting Kay to bed somewheres, and I'll give you the dope?"

Aunt Kate met them at the doorway.

"Put Kay right in that spare bed in my room," she ordered, crisply taking charge of the situation. "I reckon you're right about its being a concussion, young man. She fixed Tom with a severely appraising eye. 'Only I don't see why you couldn't have prevented its happening at all!"

"I wasn't there," Tom defended. He stooped down to pick Kay up, but Josh Hastings shoved him unceremoniously aside.

"Here! I'll do that!"

Tom watched Josh Hastings with surprised and smouldering eyes, as he gathered Kay into his arms and carried her through the door.

"You needn't look like that, young man," Aunt Kate observed tartly, as she prepared to follow after them. "These two are as good as engaged and you may as well know it now as later!"

His jaw dropped with chagrin and amazement as he watched Aunt Kate disappear inside the house.

'Throw 'Em Up, Sister!'

MARION HOWELL stirred restlessly on her bunk that was in the tiny room off the main shack where Ted was sleeping.

She had thrown herself fully dressed on the bunk, as she had done every night since Ted had appeared. Now that he was out of danger, she wouldn't be so constantly on call, she reflected, as she raised herself on one elbow and glanced out the crack in the boarded-up window over her bunk.

The first gray light of dawn was cold and cheerless, and with a shiver, she dropped back, and was preparing for more sleep, when a snapping of twigs caught her ear. She told herself it was only an animal prowling through the brush, but an instinct of alarm nevertheless impelled her to get up and creep through Ted's room to the front door.

Noticing with a glow of satisfaction how deeply and quietly he was sleeping, she went to the front door with an amused smile at herself for her nervousness.

As she put her hand on the latch to pull it open, a shove from the outside flung it in, nearly knocking her down as it swung back, revealing a group of men. One of them instantly covered her with his gun.

"Throw 'em up, sister," he commanded, "and the less fuss you make, the better for you!" He made way for the others to pass. "Go on in, and hog-tie that bird," he ordered, keeping one eye on Marion to see how she was going to respond to this surprise invasion.

"There's no use throwing my hands up, as I haven't a gun." Marion was amazed at the calmness of her own voice, which belied the sick terror that possessed her. Every instinct was alert to keep her wits about her, as the only possible way to save Ted, and her father as well. "What right have you to break in this way?"

"The right of the law to arrest a murderer." Zeke Farley answered with brutal abruptness.

Dr. Jean Stephenson of Washington, D. C., chairman of the genealogical records committee of the Daughters of the American Revolution, has announced that millions of women are eligible for membership in the society. This estimate is based on compilations of the committee.

"A vast majority of these women," she said, "are unaware that among their ancestors was a pioneer who, perhaps, shouldered a musket at Yorktown or, with his half-starved compatriots, suffered through a bitter cold winter at Valley Forge. Through patient work, year after year, the D. A. R. have gradually assembled the greatest genealogical library in America. Still the work goes on. At headquarters in Washington a large staff is constantly checking, listing and filing records. From musty church records, inscriptions on crumbling tombstones and old family Bibles come missing links in the chain of records. The work has been carried into many of the public schools where pupils are furnishing the records of their families through three generations."

Speaking of the need to speed the compilation of genealogical records, Dr. Stephenson said:

"If the records of our forefathers are preserved and made available the society can perpetuate the memory of the founders and builders of the nation, and will have materials to be used in stimulating patriotism, in inculating American ideals and with which to chart a course for the future based on the lessons of the past."

WOULD TAKE QUINS FROM BEHIND GLASS

CINCINNATI, Nov. 15—(AP)—Dr. Allan R. Dafoe, medical guardian of the Dionne quintuplets, looked forward today to the time when the five sisters could be "taken from behind glass walls" and permitted to play around with neighbor children just as less famous boys and girls.

"The time is approaching when the five girls must begin to mingle with other children in order to brush more intimately against life," Dr. Dafoe told an audience of women yesterday.

"They must be taught to be indifferent to the gaze of the curious, to which they will be subjected as long as they live," he stated.

The next problem, said the doctor, is a plan for their education. The girls are receiving pre-kindergarten training under the direction of a private tutor and nurses, he said.

"We will not allow them to become scientific guinea pigs," he added. "We try to remember that each of the quintuplets represents a distinct personality."

The country doctor, who suddenly became a world figure when he delivered the quintuplets, was here as guest of the woman's exposition.

4 TEAMS STAND OUT FOR MYTHICAL GRID TITLE

PITT, FORDHAM, CALIFORNIA AND ALABAMA LEAD

Status Of Main Contenders For Championship Unaffected

By Herbert W. Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The fortunes of war, abetted by the rigors of modern football schedule-making, had conspired to reduce the list of major undefeated teams to 12 today without affecting the unbeaten status of the main contenders for the mythical national championship.

Pitt and Fordham in the east, Alabama in the south and California in the far west still were riding high with the end of an exciting and unpredictable season in sight.

Pitt and Fordham stand out in the field of seven unbeaten eastern teams because of their representative schedules. None of the others—Yale, Dartmouth, Villanova, Holy Cross or Lafayette—has been called upon to tackle such opposition as Pitt and Fordham have overpowered. The same must be said for Santa Clara, Colorado and Montana, whose perfect records entitle them to give California at least a solid argument in the far west. Alabama, though its opposition has been almost entirely southern, stands alone as the south's lone unbeaten major eleven.

A definite falling off is noted in the quality of this week's program as many top-flight outfits rest before climax engagements on Thanksgiving day or meet second-rate opposition in preparation for important tests on November 27.

High spots of the program follow:

East:

All seven unbeaten elevens will keep punching away this week. Pitt, whose thrilling fourth-period rally led by Marshall Goldberg and Dick Cassiano ruined Nebraska's unbeaten record, 13-7, can afford to take no chances with Penn State's pass-minded Nittany Lions.

Yale, with a tie with Dartmouth the only blot, materes its undefeated record against Harvard's powerful Crimson in the east's top-ranking game from the standpoint of tradition. Clint Frank, Yale's great halfback, scored all four touchdowns in the Elis' 26-0 rout of Princeton Saturday. Harvard, meanwhile, was having trouble spilling Davidson 15-0.

Dartmouth, which had to come from behind to tie Cornell's formidable outfit, 6-6, closes its campaign against Columbia's Lions, who held Syracuse to a 6-6 draw. Villanova, hard pressed to beat Boston university on Thursday, 12-0, tackles Temple's Owls, who played their fourth scoreless tie of the year, this time with Bucknell. Holy Cross, 7-0 victor over Brown, meets Carnegie Tech's Tartans, who dropped a 13-6 decision to Michigan State. Lafayette, only eastern team with an unbeaten and untied record, closes against its traditional rival, Lehigh. The Leopards spilled Washington and Jefferson, 6-0, last week, while Lehigh bowed to Muhlenberg, 18-7.

Manhattan, impressive in a 15-0 conquest of North Carolina State, plays Niagara, while Princeton faces Navy and Syracuse plays Colgate. Both Navy and Colgate were idle last week. Georgetown, which whipped New York university, 6-0, tackles Maryland. Boston college, a 13-0 victor over Kentucky, takes on Boston university. Army prepares for the Navy game two weeks hence in a "breather" with St. John's of Annapolis.

Middlewest:

The curtain falls on Big Ten competition but the big game of the week will send Northwestern against the non-conference Irish of Notre Dame. The Irish handed Army a 7-0 beating before 78,000 in the Yankee stadium, and might have won by three or four touchdowns except for miserable playing conditions. Northwestern lost 7-0 to Minnesota.

Minnesota needs only to get past Wisconsin, which played a 7-7 draw with Purdue, to clinch the Big Ten title. If the Gophers falter, Ohio State, or as an outside possibility, Indiana, might slip into the crown. Ohio State, piling up a 19-0 margin over Illinois, tackles Michigan's Wolverines, who spilled Penn, 7-0. Indiana, escaping with a 3-0 victory over Iowa, meets Purdue. Illinois and Chicago square off in the remaining conference game.

Kansas' stunning 7-0 beating by Kansas State left Nebraska with a clear path to the Big Six title if the Huskers can whip Kansas State on November 27. They play Iowa this week. Oklahoma, which wound up its conference schedule with a 7-0 victory over Missouri, meets Oklahoma A. and M. The Sooners can win the conference title if Nebraska loses to Kansas State. Only conference game on the slate this week sends Iowa State against Kansas State. Missouri plays Washington university of St. Louis and Kansas meets Arizona.

South:

In the Southeastern conference Alabama's 7-0 victory over Georgia Tech, coupled with Auburn's 9-7 defeat by Louisiana State, left the Crimson Tide certain to clinch the conference championship if it can get past Vanderbilt on Thanksgiving day. Vanderbilt, disposing of Tennessee 13-7, now is in a second place tie with Louisiana State with Auburn just behind. A dull program this Saturday sends Auburn against Georgia, surprise 7-6 conqueror of Tulane; Georgia Tech against Florida, beaten 10-9 by Clemson, and Tulane against Sewanee, outpointed 12-0 by Mississippi State.

North Carolina's upset triumph over previously unbeaten Duke, 14-6, left the Southern conference chase a three-cornered battle among North Carolina, Clemson and Maryland. North Carolina has finished its conference schedule with four victories and a tie, Clemson has won two games and Maryland one without defeat or tie. Duke plays North Carolina State in the sole conference game this week.

Southwest:

Rice's 6-6 draw with Texas A. and M. left the Owls still sitting safely in first place, but it is unlikely the championship will be decided until the closing games on December 4. This week the Owls tackle formidable Texas Christian, 14-0 victors over Texas. Baylor, losing its second successive conference game in a 13-7 upset by Southern Methodist, plays Loyola of Los Angeles. Arkansas, which routed Mississippi, 32-6, takes on George Washington.

Far west:

The championship of the Pacific coast conference will be settled at Palo Alto when California battles Stanford. California, 26-0 victor over Oregon, must win or tie to clinch the crown. Stanford, which routed Washington State, 23-0, must win to tie the Golden Bears in the final standings. Washington, which stopped U. C. L. A., 26-0, winds up against Oregon, and Oregon State, after a 12-12 draw with Southern California, meets Washington State. U. C. L. A. plays Southern Methodist. Unbeaten Montana, a non-conference school, plays Idaho.

Rocky mountain:

Colorado's 25-6 rout of Colorado college and Denver's 21-6 conquest of Wyoming left the championship to be settled by the Colorado-Denver game on Thanksgiving day. A victory for Denver would leave the two teams tied in the final standings.

PACKERS BEAT PHILADELPHIA

Detroit Hands 17 To 0 Whipping To New York Squad

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—The Green Bay Packers bowled over Philadelphia yesterday, 37 to 7, with Arnie Herber tossing passes for three of five touchdowns made on the Eagles. At the same time Detroit handed New York a 17-to-0 whipping.

Approximately 36,000 fans watched Detroit upset the eastern section leaders at the Polo Grounds with a smart running, kicking and passing game.

Chicago's Bears had little trouble downing Brooklyn 29 to 7 at Chicago, with Jack Manders, former Minnesota star, scoring the first 16 Bear points on two touchdowns, a field goal and one extra-point conversion. Washington's Redskins, with a chance to take over the eastern lead, mowed to Pittsburgh's Pirates 21 to 13 in a hair-raiser.

The Pirates stopped Sammy Baugh's passing game, the former Texas Christian ace completing only five of 17 aerial attempts for the Redskins. One of them, however, was good for a touchdown.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIETZ

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Washington and Lee is reported flirting with "Greasy" Neale, Yale's top-notch assistant coach, to succeed Tex Tilson as head coach . . . Our operatives say "Greasy" is listening and only a matter of $1,500 is keeping 'em apart . . . Down south they are plenty burned up because the Pacific coast thinks Alabama's schedule doesn't represent enough football for a Rose Bowl invite . . . Chubby Frank Thomas, Crimson Tide coach, said "Ouch" and dropped 20 pounds when he heard it . . . Jack Del—beg pardon—Doyle, the prize fighter, bought himself a monocle before sailing for Europe . . . Haw!

He doesn't know it, but big league scouts have their eyes on Labaron Coakley, sports cartoonist for the Richmond News-Leader, who is a real artist at putting it down in black and white . . . Penn beat Navy which beat Columbia which beat Penn . . . But Penn lost to Penn State which lost to Syracuse which lost to Maryland which lost to Penn . . . P. S. Write your own ticket . . . Colleges should hire Jimmy Crowley, Fordham coach, as lecturer . . . Jim delivered a pep talk to a Norwalk (Conn.) high school team and the very next day Norwalk held Westport to a 13-13 tie after having lost to them earlier in the season.

Those four football "sleepers" we gave you last week did all right . . . North Carolina pinned Duke's ears back . . . Georgia Tech lost a close one to Alabama . . . But Cornell and Columbia tied two highly favored elevens . . . So nobody lost money . . . There'll be another three-star special Wednesday or Thursday . . . Best crack of the week was pulled by a columnist in the Michigan Daily, student paper at the U. of Michigan . . . He said: "Michigan's football team has the spirit of 7 to 6 . . . (Michigan 7, Iowa 6; Michigan 7, Illinois 6; Michigan 13, Chicago 12—same thing.)

Directors of the Detroit Lions have voted to present Coach Earl (Dutch) Clark a new car . . . Only rub is, most of the directors are executives of big automobile companies, and they are having a terrible time deciding on the kind of car "Dutch" will get . . . Happy motoring, Dutch . . . Wisecracking Pitt players say they are going to Durham to make "Duke abdicate" . . . (If you ask us, North Carolina attended to that) . . . Duquesne fans are howling because Coach "Clipper" Smith can't line up a Grade A schedule with his Grade A team . . . Bill Terry is reported trying to buy a Park avenue building.

Too bad it has to be a West Coast conference team that goes to the Rose Bowl . . . Otherwise, we would nominate Montana university, with Milton Popovich, or Colorado with its "Whizzer" White . . . Both are real football teams . . . Some coast scribes feel the same way about it . . . It was "Londos to London to Londos" when Nick Londos, Detroit promoter, called London to ask Jim Londos to wrassle in Detroit . . . Finally turned out they were 4,000 miles and $2,000 apart . . . Some fellows think the only reason Fordham will not get a Rose Bowl bid is that the Rams will not draw as well as Pitt or Alabama.

HIGH SCORERS HOLD PLACES

Most Of Week-End Point-Making, However, Made By Others

ATLANTA, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Last week's touchdown heroes of the Southeastern conference played second fiddle to substitutes in scoring this week-end but none lost his place among the top flight dividend players.

Bob Davis of Kentucky today led the pigskin parade for the season without adding so much as an extra point to his 48-point record. When Davis fails to make a touchdown in any one week there has to be a reason. It was: Boston college 13; Kentucky 0.

Alabama's Kilgrow was secure in second place with five touchdowns and the lead in points after, 12. He managed to squeeze into Saturday's scoring column by booting a placement to add the final point to the 7-0 defeat of Georgia Tech.

And because there was no scoring for Tech, Big Dutch Konemann was in third position with six trips and a point after for a season's total of 37 points.

Charley Rohm of Louisiana State failed to add to his record as the Tigers defeated Auburn 9-7. He trails Tech's Dutchman by a point with six touchdowns and is tied with Vassa Cate of the Georgia Bulldogs.

Cate made the lone touchdown jaunt which gave Georgia her first major win in many weeks, a 7 to 6 defeat of Tulane, and added his sixth marker to the records.

Although Captain Fletcher Sims of Georgia Tech fell to the rear of the top-flighters, he trailed Kilgrow for second honors in placement kicking with 11 to his string.

It would appear as though Gaynell Tinsley, above, only has to remain in the Chicago Cardinals' lineup to establish a new forward pass receiving record in his first year in the National league. Southeastern Conference Race Narrows To 3 Teams

Alabama, Vanderbilt And Louisiana State Still In Running

By Kenneth Gregory

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

The Southeastern conference championship argument today had narrowed down to three teams, with Alabama's Crimson Tide in sole command of proceedings, and Vanderbilt's Commodores and Louisiana State's Tigers in threatening positions.

That's the setup as the race enters the stretch run, and only this trio remained in the picture after seven weeks of the titular race in which 13 teams went to the post.

Vanderbilt is in a fine spot to throw the championship into a triple tie, taking into consideration a couple of "ifs" and in so doing the Commodores would no doubt, in the minds of the record-studying public, become a "moral" title holder.

Earlier in the season Vanderbilt handed the champion Louisiana State team its first setback in two seasons, 7 to 6. The Commodores provide the opposition for Alabama's undefeated and untied gridders in a championship struggle at Nashville on Thanksgiving day.

Should the Commodores check the rush of the Crimson Tide toward a "perfect" record and should Louisiana overhaul Tulane's Green Wave in its final conference engagement the leading trio of teams would finish the campaign with five victories and one defeat each.

Alabama and Vanderbilt set the stage for their Thanksgiving day "championship" encounter with hard-earned victories. For the second straight Saturday Alabama had to rally its power and scoring weapons in the closing minutes to beat Georgia Tech 7 to 0. Vanderbilt found Tennessee quite tough before winning 13 to 7.

This week's slate involves seven conference teams, but three have no bearing on the titular argument. Louisiana State does not meet Tulane until November 27. For keenness of rivalry, the Auburn-Georgia tussle at Columbus, Ga., headlines this week's card.

Auburn's Plainsmen were nosed out 9 to 7 by Louisiana State, with the Tigers capitalizing on fumbles, and Georgia's Bulldogs surprised by beating Tulane 7 to 6.

Georgia Tech's Engineers combat Florida's 'Gators. Florida was beaten 10 to 9 in a thrilling affair by Clemson's Tigers. Tulane's Green Wave takes on Sewanee at New Orleans and should beat the Tigers, who lost to Mississippi State 12 to 0. Louisiana State plays Louisiana Normal at Baton Rouge in a non-conference go.

The University of Tennessee's next engagement is a Thanksgiving day brawl with Kentucky's Wildcats, also a victim of "foreign" opposition in losing to Boston college 13 to 0. The holiday bill is also enlivened by another "state" argument between Mississippi State and Mississippi. The latater was overwhelmed by Arkansas 32 to 6.

In the ocean five miles off the coast of Florida a fresh water spring has been found.

FOOTBALL STARS

By Associated Press

Clint Frank, Yale, scored four touchdowns against Princeton on runs of 18, 22, 5 and 4 yards.

Byron White, Colorado, led rally with three touchdowns in defeat of Colorado college.

Joe Beinor, Notre Dame, recovered Army fumble to set stage for Irish touchdown and played brilliantly on defense.

Joe Kilgrow, Alabama, passed for game's lone touchdown after putting ball in position with 25-yard run against Georgia Tech.

George Miller and Corby Davis, Indiana: Miller place kicked field goal, game's lone score, against Iowa and Davis' great punting kept Iowa at bay.

Ray King, Minnesota, snagged pass to score only touchdown in victory over Northwestern after his runback of intercepted [illegible]-yard pass had started advance.

George Fenley, Southern Methodist, tossed passes for two touchdowns in triumph over Baylor Bears.

Davey O'Brien, Texas Christian, led attack with running and passing and scored two extra points in win over Texas.

Bill Paulman, Stanford, directed Indian attack brilliantly in rout of Washington State and place kicked 11-yard field goal.

Merle Miller, Washington, plunged for one touchdown and caught forward pass for another in triumph over University of California at Los Angeles.

Stark Ritchie, Michigan, threw two passes, one for touchdown in drive that beat Pennsylvania.

Frank Foley, Harvard, ran 63 yards for one touchdown and scored a second in win over Davidson.

PEACE PREVAILS AT A. A. U. CONVENTION

BOSTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Peace in the Amateur Athletic union's three-day, 49th annual convention prevailed early today as a special nominating committee settled on one candidate, and one alone, for the office of president.

The candidate was a "dark horse," Judge Samuel E. Hoyt, prosecuting attorney from New Haven, Conn., a Yale man but non-athlete.

Hoyt emerged as the candidate named by an influential body that was called together by the 1937 president, Judge Jeremiah T. Mahoney of New York, Secretary-Treasurer Daniel J. Ferris of New York, and Vice-president Charles Hunter of the Olympic club, San Francisco.

The nomination of Hoyt, a college man and former president of the connection A. A. U., was a surprise step in the A. A. U.'s decision to seek a more harmonious relation with the National Collegiate Athletic association, the organization that sought greater collegiate representation on the American Olympics games committee in boxing, swimming, eight-oared rowing and track and field.

English film producers made their first big bid for Hollywood stars in 1922.

MOB OVERRUNS JOHN MONTAGUE AND TWO BABES

Former Mysterious One Quits When Crowd Swipes Ball

By Gayle Talbot

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Having observed with expert eye the formal debut of John Montague in big league golf, it is possible to reveal for the first time several glaring weaknesses in the game of the big muscle man from California.

In the first place, Montague is prone to slice badly off the tee if, at the top of his swing, some admirer at his elbow bellows, "Sock it, Monty, old boy!"

His approach shots, while sound in some respects, are inclined to wander off the line if there are over 3,000 persons between him and the flag, all of them shouting, "Down in front before I bust you one!"

His putting, too, is nothing to rave about when he can't see the hole, and he is inclined to quit like a dog and go home a sore when his ball gets stolen off the green.

All this new data on golf's "mystery man" was dug up during a hilarious three [illegible] yesterday at the Fresh Meadow Country club, whose directors [illegible] better than ever [illegible] to throw their manicured pastures open to the general public at a dollar a throw. HUMAN BARRIER

In a desperate effort to halt the flow of customers into a cafeteria in New York's busy Times Square area, where employes have been on strike for several months, pickets lay down in front of the entrance and refused to leave until removed bodily by police. Above officers attempt to induce the pickets to rise from the sidewalk. In a riot that ensued, many persons were reported injured.

SCREEN AND STAGE VETERAN EXPIRES

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 15.—(AP)—Franke Losee, veteran of 50 years on stage and screen, died at his home here yesterday at the age of 81.

While Ulp sat thinking how he might get rid of the little high priestess, the fearful voice of a hungry lion sounded in the distance. An idea filtered into Ulp's muddy mind. How fortunate it would be if the hungry beast should come and devour the child!

His slow-moving brain groped for some means of accomplishing his horrible purpose. Then an evil smile overspread his brutal face. Yes, the thing might be arranged so that it would appear accidental. Ulp arose and ambled toward the shelter that housed Yvonne.

Through the black jungle night, two other figures crept toward the same goal. They were Dick and Doc. The two brave boys had descended from the trees at the opposite side of the camp, and they were crawling now through the brush—intent upon reaching Yvonne.

They were unaware that the sinister Ulp wa moving toward the same objective—for a far different purpose. If the boys continued at the sam pace, they would come face to face with Ulp; then they, as well as Yvonne, might becomes captive of the awful brute-men!

MARKETS

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Cotton traders almost deserted the trading ring here today to listen in on proceedings attending the opening of the special session of congress.

The operators clustered about a radio to hear the broadcast and as a result the market which opened steady was sluggish all morning. Few transactions were recorded.

In the early afternoon prices were 2 to 9 points under Saturday's close. December traded at 7.94, January at 7.91, March at 8.00, May at 8.04, July 8.10, October 8.19 and December (new) at 8.12 bid.

Business held off principally because of uncertainty over congressional action. Liverpool cables came in easier and contributed to the scant decline, which also was helped by hedge selling and liquidation of the December option. Trade shorts took some of the offerings.

There was little rainfall in the belt and temperatures were near or above normal.

Most traders regarded with apprehension the indication by President Roosevelt in his message to congress that the administration would seek a compulsory crop control law.

The market closed barely steady net unchanged to 8 points lower. Exports today were 22,087 bales.

Cotton futures closed barely steady at net declines of 6 to 10 points.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Quiet selling cut down leaders in today's stock market in the wake of another sizable drop in steel mill operations and the release of the president's message to congress.

Hopeful traders stepped over on the buying side in the morning and lifted prices fractions to two points. Gains, however, were subsequently converted into losses running to three or more, with steels and motors conspicuously weak.

Dealings were relatively slow from the start and even in the afternoon slide volume failed to pick up to any great extent. Transfers were around 1,500,000 shares.

By Victor Eubank

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Hopes the president's message to congress would sound a clarion recovery note helped to lift stocks fractions to two points in today's early market.

Best gains were registered before noon, however, and near the fourth hour sufficient profit selling appeared to cut down leaders substantially. Dealings were exceptionally low.

Most foreign securities markets leaned forward. Bonds improved. Commodities lacked vigor, the majority pointing lower.

United States Steel, up more than a point at one time, fell back later, and Bethlehem retained only a small portion of a two-point set-up.

Buying in utilities and building material specialties was a stimulating factor in the morning. Speculative circles saw brighter prospects for government peace with the power and light companies and thoughts of a federal housing campaign were still inspiring.

Ahead the greater part of the day were Acme Steel, Crucible, Republic, Inland Steel, U. S. Rubber, J. I. Case, Deere, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, American Telephone, Corn Products, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, American Can, Celanese, Coca-Cola and Phillips Petroleum. Some of these gave ground later.

Rails failed to get out in front and motors were in the sliding division. The majority of the oils and rubbers did little.

Backward were General Motors, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Oliver Farm, Allied Chemical, du Pont, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central, Great Northern, Union Pacific, Northern Pacific and Atlantic Coast Line.

The automotive group had to contend with the labor negotiations involving Ford's 90,000 workers. At the same time R. L. Polk and company estimated new passenger car sales in October were off around 28,000 from September but were more than 50,000 ahead of October last year.

Aviation shares had the benefit of Boeing's third quarter statement which disclosed net of 17 cents a share in the third quarter against 7 cents in the same 1936 period.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Late downturns of Chicago wheat prices today plunged the market about three cents a bushel maximum lower.

Flattening out of export demand for wheat from North America was largely responsible, together with persistent assertions of better crop conditions in Argentina. It was stated that the time was too early yet to ascertain the extent of Argentine frost damage.

At the close wheat was 2 1-2—2 3-4 under Saturday's finish, December 89 1-8—1-4, May 89 3-4—7-8. Corn 1-4—7-8 off, December 53 3-8—1-2, May 56 5-8—3-4, and oats at 1-4 decline to 1-8 advance.

POST LAUNCHES MEMBER DRIVE

Local V. F. W. Unit Seeks To Increase Roster By 50 Per Cent

Renewal of all existing memberships, reinstatement of all previous members and the recruiting of new members, constitute the purposes of a "round-up" inaugurated here this week by Rodney J. Hobbs post, Veterans of Foreign Wars. The local post is one of 3,600 units of the organization which are seeking to increase the nation-wide membership to 500,000 by September 1, 1938, according to E. H. Miller, local post commander.

Under the direction of the Louisiana department of the V. F. W., membership quotas have been assigned each local unit in the state. The Monroe post has been assigned a membership quota of 50 per cent increase, Commander Miller stated. He said that this is based on a survey of all eligible veterans of this community and immediate vicinity.

Plans for attaining the quota rest primarily upon a personal contact campaign which will take an active member of the post into the home or office of every overseas veteran in this area. A list of such veterans has been divided among the present members of the post, each of whom will be responsible for signing up the men assigned him. Plans are being made for a series of prizes to be awarded post members who first obtain membership applications of their quota of veterans, Commander Miller said.

Prizes are also being awarded by the V. F. W. national headquarters in Kansas City, Mo., to all members recruiting five, 10, 25, 50 or more members, the commander said.

The nation-wide round-up has been planned in support of the 1938 four-point program which the Veterans of Foreign Wars are sponsoring. The program includes the following objectives: Adequate care for widows, orphans and dependent parents of overseas veterans; jobs or pensions for all veterans; "keeping America out of war," and the promotion and protection of Americanism as exemplified by the American form of government and the ideals and principles reflected in the constitution of the United States.

FALSE TEETH
Can Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their teeth dropped or slipped at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline powder, on your plates. Makes false teeth stay in place and feel comfortable all day long. Sweetens breath. Get FASTEETH at any drug store. Accept no substitute. —Adv.

YOUNG LIVERMORE MARRIES DIVORCEE

BALTIMORE, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Restless Jesse Livermore, Jr., whose mother once shot him at a drinking party, honeymooned today with maternal blessings on him and his divorcee-bride.

The young son of a man renowned for daring Wall Street operations was married yesterday to blonde, attractive Mrs. Evelyn Sullivan, of Sparrows Point, whose father was a figure in Baltimore sporting circles.

They went to "Gretna Green" Bel Air, were wed by the Rev. G. A. Ogg, a "marrying parson," returned here briefly, then slipped away to New York last night.

Witnesses to the ceremony were Jesse's twice-divorced mother, Mrs. Dorothea Longcope, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Carrie Bletzer, whose fight-promoting husband, Henry L. Bletzer, died in May.

Livermore gave his age and his bride's as 20 years.

Shouting "drunkard" at him, Jesse's mother shot him two years ago at a party in Santa Barbara, Calif. Livermore, who had handed her a rifle, maintained the shooting was accidental.

RAIL FOREMAN, NEGRO WOUNDED

Latter Shot Four Times In Battle With Special Agent

JACKSON, Miss., Nov. 15.—(AP)—An escaped negro convict and a railroad section foreman were wounded in a gun fight foray in South Jackson today.

The negro, Charlie McGill, who had been loitering about the railroad property, was shot four times and is not expected to survive.

John Earle, Gulf, Mobile and Northern Railway company section foreman, received a flesh wound in the thigh and is expected to recover.

Earle was wounded by a stray bullet from the negro's gun as J. L. Yarborough, a railroad special agent, sought to overpower the negro.

Police Inspector A. E. Crawford said Yarborough returned the negro's fire.

"Apparently the negro shot himself once though, "Inspector Crawford said. "There were four bullet holes in his body and Yarborough fired only three shots. Earle was not armed."

Inspector Crawford said the negro had been chased off railroad property earlier in the day by Yarborough, but had returned. The officer said when Yarborough sought to arrest him for trespassing the negro began shooting. Earle was standing nearby.

ELLENDER TO OFFER LINT CONTROL BILL

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—(AP)—Senator Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana said today he and Chairman Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, of the senate agriculture committee would introduce tomorrow a bill to control cotton production.

"It will provide compulsory control by regulation of acreage in a way to protect the small farmer," he said.

He said allotment of acreage for planting would be governed under the bill's provisions by soil fertility, previous diversification of crops, and other factors to make the establishment of acreage bases more elastic, and would set up minimum acreages for the small grower.
